LOUISIANA'S GOVERNOR ORDERS OUT NAVAL RESERVES; BATTLE WITH MISSISSIPPI ON BOUNDARY IMMINENT

LEE DESCRIBES HIS DIVISION OF BOODLE FUND IN FARRIS' ROOM

Former Lieutenant-Governor on Stand in Alum Bribery Trial, Describes His Work on Behalf of the Baking Powder Trust—Crowd Hears His Evidence.

"EACH COMMITTEEMAN $1000, EXCEPT DOWELL"

Lewis County Senator Not Party to Transaction—Lee Says Farris Told Him Repeal Bill Would Be Held by Committee for Compensation.

From a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 2.—Former Lieutenant-Governor John A. Lee, confessed bribe-taker, today emerged from the obscurity into which he sunk after confessing and resigning his office during the inquiries into official corruption two years ago, and took the witness stand here against his former legislative associate, State Senator Frank H. Farris.

It was Lee's part to tell what he said was Farris' part in bribe-taking in connection with the anti-alum legislation of 1901, and subsequent General Assembly sessions, and to assist the State in the prosecution of the Senator on those charges—a part by the exercise of which he expects to secure immunity from prosecution for his own confessed participation in the work.

LEE AND FARRIS FACE TO FACE.

Lee waited all morning in the Sheriff's oice. When he entered the courtroom at 11:10 his face was pale and rawn. He was garbed in a black suit of ordinary material, and wore a black tie and low standing collar.

After taking the oath he walked slowly to the witness chair and, taking his seat, rested his right shoulder on the Judge's desk.

Less than 10 feet away and staring squarely at him with a contemptuous smile on his face sat Senator Farris, with whom Lee was at one time on terms of close official intimacy.

Lee did not return Farris' gaze, but with downcast eyes in a rather nervous, subdued tone of voice began his testimony.

TELLS OF MEETING KELLEY.

In answer to Attorney-General Hadley, Lee said that he was employed by a Chicago wholesale house, but retained his St. Louis residence.

He testified that he first met D. J. Kelley, legislative agent for the Baking Powder Trust, shortly before his election as Lieutenant-Governor in the fall of 1900. He (Lee) had heard of anti-alum legislation, considered it a good law and was asked by Kelley to take a personal interest in the matter.

He did so, he says, and spoke personally to members of the Senate and of the Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence particularly. He spoke to Farris about alum legislation in the early part of the session of 1901.

SAYS COMMITTEE ASKED PAY.

"Farris told me he was interested in the alum bill and could fix up matters with the members of the Criminal Jurisprudence Committee," said Lee.

"Later he came to my office and said the committee could fix it. That they could refuse to report the bill if they were compensated for their services."

MEMBERS WANTED $1000 EACH.

"I told him I was not authorized to take such action.

Then he asked for my correspondent and told me to make him a proposition.

"One Senator, Dowell of Lewis County, he said, was not collaborating with them, but the others wanted $1000 apiece.

"I told him of D. J. Kelley," continued Lee, "and said that I would consider the matter. I telegraph Kelley to call me up by long distance phone. The following day he called me up. I told him of the matter and he said he would let me know in a day or two after he had conferred with certain other parties.

"He telegraphed the following day, 'Proposition satisfactory—be sure to attend to H.'

"I received it in the evening and at once asked for Farris. I heard he was in Senator Morton's room. I went there and handed him the dispatch.

"A little later he met me in the lobby of the Madison House. He said that the telegram was all right, but for me to tell my correspondent not to mention names, especially that of H. in his message."

PUT $7000 IN ENVELOPES.

Lee spoke slowly and dispiritedly. Continuing he said that Farris told him the members of the committee were not entirely satisfied, that they wanted to see something definite in a financial way.

Thereupon, Lee declared, he wrote to Kelley and received a check on the State National Bank of New York for $8500. He showed it to Farris, he said, then took it to Walker Hill, President of the American Exchange Bank in St. Louis to find out if it was good.

Then he testified he cashed the check the same day. That was March 19, 1901.

He got $7000 in currency. He said he took it to Farris' room at the Laclede Hotel, put the money on the table, and got some large envelopes. He put the money in these for distribution to the Senators, he said, adding that Kelley had notified him the extra $1500 was for himself.

At noon the Court took a recess until 1:30, when Gov. Lee resumed his testimony.

Dowell on Stand.

When Court convened at 9:30 the prosecution called Leo Weller, Deputy Circuit Clerk of Cole County, and Secretary of State John E. Swanger to identify the indictment and the official records of the House and Senate.

The bills to repeal the anti-alum law were introduced for the first time at the 1901 session of the Legislature. Their passage was fought by the Baking Powder Trust, which uses cream of tartar instead of alum.

Joe Tull, chief clerk of the House of Representatives, and Con Roach, secretary of the Senate in the Forty-first General Assembly, gave formal testimony.

There was a tilt between counsel relative to the introduction of testimony tending to show that Farris and his colleague, as members of the Criminal Jurisprudence Committee, suppressed the anti-alum repeal bill in committee, despite open protests made on the floor of both houses.

Secretary Roach testified the anti-alum repeal bill was reported out of committee a few hours before the Legislature adjourned.

Senator Dowell was then called to the stand.

No Report on Anti-Alum Bill.

He did not recall any meeting of the Criminal Jurisprudence Committee at which the merits of the anti-alum repeal bill were discussed, nor any that was called for the purpose of making recommendations respecting baking powder legislation.

Senator Dowell testified that to the best of his knowledge no report was made by the committee on the floor of the Senate. If a report was presented he did not sign it, he said.

On cross-examination Dowell, replying to questions from Attorney Jourdan, said that he was associated with several legislative committees, and hence could not accurately remember all the Senate proceedings bearing on the anti-alum bill.

TRYING TO GET CABANNE WOMAN OUT OF JAIL

Habeas Corpus Writ Asked for Mrs. Anna L. Murphy, Jailed for Refusing to Answer Questions of Lawyers.

SHE MAY AGREE TO TALK TO GAIN HER FREEDOM

Fearing to Undergo the Horrors of a Second Night in Sight of Gallows, She Will Ask Advice of Attorney.

Mrs. Anna L. Murphy, 5575 Maple avenue, is still in City Jail, where she was committed by Notary Public Funkhouser, for refusing to testify before him in a case in which her husband is defendant. When asked this afternoon if she would be willing to testify in order to obtain her release from jail, she said:

"I don't want to testify. I would do anything to get out of here. This is horrible! But, I can't say whether I will testify or not until I see my attorneys."

A writ or habeas corpus issued by Judge Bishop, on the application of Mrs. Murphy's attorneys, was made returnable at 10 a. m. tomorrow, until which time, if not other action is taken, she must remain in jail.

Judge Ready This Afternoon.

Judge Bishop however, said that he would hear the argument in the habeas corpus proceedings in chamber this afternoon, if the attorneys in the case would agree on an hour for the hearing.

The petition for the writ sets out the allegation that the Notary Public overstepped his authority when he issued the commitment on which Mrs. Murphy was placed in jail.

Testify or Stay in Jail.

The statutes provide that in such cases the prisoner committed for contempt may be kept in jail until willing to testify. Notary Public Funkhouser says that he will resist the habeas corpus proceedings and insist that Mrs. Murphy be imprisoned until she expresses a willingness to make deposition of what she knows in the case of the National Life Insurance Co. of Vermont against her husband, Thomas M. Murphy.

Mrs. Murphy's story of the visit of the deputy sheriff to her home yesterday morning was as follows:

"The first I knew of his presence was when he walked into my boudoir, where I was making my toilet. I was preparing to go to Hannibal. I don't know how he got into the house or how he found me in my room. He said to me: 'I have an attachment for you and you must accompany me.'

"He shook some papers under my nose. I told him I would not go with him.

Spoke of Hoodlum Wagon.

"'You must,' he said; 'I have a warrant for your arrest. If you don't go peaceably I'll take you in the hoodlum wagon.'

"'Never! Never!' I said. 'You'll never take me from this house.'

"He shook his papers angrily in my face and asked me if I knew I was in contempt of court and said I'd go to jail for it, if no other way, by force.

"I told him he couldn't put me in jail; that he couldn't arrest me, because I'd done no wrong.

"'I'll show you whether you have or not,' he said. 'You had better make up your mind to come peaceably before it's too late!'

"I thought then I would use strategy and I asked him to wait until I did some things that I had to do. He sat down in the boudoir, saying:

"'Oh, I'll wait. I'll wait as long as you want.'

"I don't remember what I did. I was excited. I tried to send word to my husband and I kept busy about the house. I kept him waiting about four hours.

"Then he said, 'Look here, I'm tired of waiting. You've got to come.'

"I said I'd never do it.

"He seized my arm in both his hands

MRS. ANNA L. MURPHY

MRS. MURPHY TELLS OF HORRIBLE FIRST NIGHT IN JAIL CELL

Mrs. Murphy, pale and haggard after a sleepless night spent in the single room forming the women's department of the Jail, together with many other women prisoners, black and white, related to a Post-Dispatch reporter her experiences of the night.

"I never saw a jail before, inside or outside," she said. "Why, I never even saw the inside of a courtroom.

"I could not sleep at all last night. I wouldn't lie in those beds and I could not have slept anyhow.

"When I looked through the window and saw the gallows outside I screamed and I thought I would choke. All night I tried to keep my back turned toward that window, but it seemed as if the thing fascinated me. I found myself turning around toward it sometimes in spite of myself."

HUSBAND BARRED FROM HER.

Accompanied by her husband, her son and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Murphy arrived at the Four Courts at 7:30 p. m. The officer took her directly to the Jail on the commitment which he carried. He led her to the Jail floor, the big circular space outside the cell corridors.

The husband and others were not allowed to follow her there until they got passes from the jailer. The moment the door closed behind her, Mrs. Murphy, who had been somewhat composed by the presence of her relatives, screamed.

"Don't, please don't leave me in this place by myself!" she cried.

"I've got nothing to do with you now," said the deputy. "I've done my duty."

Mrs. Dawson, wife of the jailer, met her and tried to console her, but had little success. She was weeping and moaning in the clerk's office—a small room adjoining the Jail floor—when, 10 minutes later, her husband and the others joined her. They were allowed to remain with her until 11 p. m., when told that they must retire. The parting was pathetic, Mrs. Murphy being hysterical.

GALLOWS IN YARD FASCINATED HER.

She was taken then to the women's quarters, a one-story, one-room building, separated from the Jail proper by the "bullring," where the guards walk. The room contains about 40 cots, not all of which were occupied last night. Among the women were some negroes.

When asked by the matron to undress and take one of the cots, she refused, growing more hysterical.

"No, no!" she cried, "I'll never sleep in a place like this. Don't ask me to!"

She sat in a chair, then, near a window. She had been sobbing, with her face in her hands, when she saw the window and looked out. Her gaze met the gallows. She knew what it was from pictures she had seen.

Her screams startled the other inmates.

"Help! Take me out of here! I cannot stay and see that!" she cried.

Sitting down again presently, she turned the chair away from the window and sat there, moaning through the night.

This morning she refused to eat breakfast when it was brought to her. She could not bear to eat there, she said.

SHOWERS TONIGHT; WARMER

Mercury Will Not Rise Enough to Help Ice Cream Man or Gardens.

Umbrella dealers will find something of interest in today's weather forecast.

The local prophet finds hope of showers, and puts it down officially this way:

"Partly cloudy, with thundershowers late tonight or Thursday; little change in temperature; variable winds."

In an interesting "aside," forecaster says the temperature will probably be a little higher, although not enough to give encouragement to the iceman or send summer garden proprietors into spasms of delight.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 2.—Gov. Blanchard today issued orders to Capt. J. W. Bostick, in command of the Louisiana Naval Reserves to proceed with a sufficient force to Lake Borgne Canal and adopt measures for the protection of Louisiana fishermen, citizens and boatmen.

The oyster commission has been instructed to turn over the oyster fleet to Capt. Bostick for service in this matter and the naval commander has instructions to add by charter or impressment whatever boats he deems desirable for his mission.

The boats will be fully armed and each filled with a complement of naval militia.

Gov. Blanchard's action is based on telegrams received today showing that the Mississippi quarantine officers are reported to be employing high-handed measures and interfering with Louisiana citizens.

Capt. Bostick today made a report to the Governor by wire that armed Mississippians had been crossing the Louisiana line, that Mississippi launches had been interfering with traffic in Lake Pontchartrain and capturing schooners; that they have stopped fishing in Lake Borgne and that traffic in Lake Borgne Canal has been interrupted.

Gov. Blanchard today wired to Secretary of the Treasury Shaw a vigorous protest against the interference of the revenue cutter Winona with Louisiana fishing boats lawfully riding in Louisiana or Federal waters. He advised the Secretary that the Winona is apparently assisting the Mississippi quarantine patrol boats in interfering with Louisiana citizens.

The Governor also wired the Collector of Customs at Biloxi, under whose jurisdiction the Winona is, demanding the release of Louisiana boats held by the cutter. A similar dispatch was sent to the officer in charge of the United States Marine Hospital on Ship Island.

Up to noon today there had been six deaths from yellow fever, making the total deaths to date 74. All these deaths occurred in the Emergency Hospital. There was one new case, making a total of 347.

Another phase of the controversy between the States of Louisiana and Mississippi has developed in the filing of writs of ejectment and injunction against the Mississippi militia in the Federal Courts.

The suit was brought by Albert Baldwin, banker and capitalist of this city. Mr. Baldwin seeks to enjoin the Mississippi soldiers from taking possession of his fishing and hunting lodge on Pearl River. It seems that permission was asked to occupy the place for the militia doing guard duty on the border, and it was refused.

The troops answered that unless granted permission in a certain time they would break open the place. Yesterday they broke in and Mr. Baldwin decided to bring suit. Federal marshals will probably be sent to the scene.

Gov. Vardaman left Jackson today for the Gulf Coast to make a rigid examination of the complaint from Gov. Blanchard.

This action on the part of Gov. Blanchard was taken upon official information that Mississippi had appeared on Louisiana ground, and Mississippi patrol vessels had entered Louisiana waters to seize and disinfect a Louisiana fisherman's vessel.

Gov. Blanchard has declared that he will drive the Mississippi forces from Louisiana soil and waters, and Gov. Vardaman is equally candid in declaring that he will pursue his present methods in handling the quarantine situation, which has furnished the source of the trouble.

The present critical situation was not unexpected, in view of the criticisms which the two governors have lately published regarding each other.

FEVER REACHES BEST RESIDENCE SECTIONS.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 2.—The Board of Health had two very disheartening surprises yesterday.

Cases of yellow fever were reported from the garden part of the city, the fashionable residence district.

Word also came that 10 different parishes of the State have the fever.

It was supposed by the health authorities that the disease was being confined largely to the territory originally infected.

Two cases appeared yesterday at Shreveport, 240 miles northwest of New Orleans; six in Plaquemine Parish, just below the city on the west bank of the river; two in Jefferson Parish, also adjoining New Orleans, and one in Terre Bonne Parish, 70 miles southwest.

In Plaquemine Parish two cases are located in Vaccaro, one in Sun Rise, one in Empire, one in Austrica, and one at Point Celeste.

In Terre Bonne the case is on Ardoine plantation, about half way between Schriever and Houma, both sugar towns. This is an Italian, who went from here to work on a sugar estate.

In Jefferson two cases have broken out at Westwego, which place is composed principally of the great docks and terminals of the Texas & Pacific Railroad, the Missouri Pacific and the Gould connections.

Several steamships for foreign ports are loading there now.

Montgomery, Ala., has one case of yellow fever. William Minnehett from Kentwood, La., was taken sick Friday night at the Capitol Hotel. He is now in an emergency hospital.

At Shreveport the detention camp is located in a large field. Barney Tracey, traveler for a Chicago house, was taken there from the Kansas City Southern train, bound north. He had the fever some days before he reached the camp.

Italians Spread Disease.

The Board of Health holds that the spread of fever to parishes near New Orleans is due to Italians, who scattered when the fever broke out near the French Market.

Yesterday after the plague was found to exist in the best residence quarter, $10,000 worth of travelers' checks were bought of one express company.

Attorney Renaud has contracted the fever and is at his home on Calhoun street.

WOULD INVITE YELLOW FEVER REFUGEES HERE

Dr. Heine Marks, Formerly Superintendent of City Hospital, Sees No Danger in Immigration From South.

HE WAS REFUGEE DURING EPIDEMIC 27 YEARS AGO

There Was Only One Death at That Time in St. Louis, Though Hundreds of Sufferers Came Here.

"Dr. Heine Marks, former superintendent of the City Hospital, who came to St. Louis from New Orleans as a refugee from the yellow fever epidemic of 1878, says that St. Louis should welcome those who are fleeing from the present epidemic of yellow fever in that city.

"Many of our best people came here in 1878 to escape the fever which ravaged New Orleans in that year," said Dr. Marks. "Among them are the members of the firm of Rice, Stix & Co., Schwab Clothing Co., Strauss Millinery Co., H. A. Smith and two of the Scharf brothers. I believe that if St. Louis wishes to encourage the best people of the South in settling here and wishes to get her million now is the time to do it.

"These people would appreciate an asylum when all other doors are barred against them. There is very little, if any, danger of an epidemic like that of New Orleans getting a start in St. Louis as yellow fever is practically an unknown disease in this latitude.

Refugees in 1878.

"On the boat which brought my father and me from New Orleans in 1878 there were more than three hundred persons and among them were twenty cases of the disease. The only precautions taken were to leave the twenty fever patients at Quarantine and to thoroughly disinfect the property of the other passengers before landing them.

"The only death from the plague in St. Louis in 1878 was that of Dr. Davis, who was then superintendent of Quarantine station.

"Yellow fever cannot become an epidemic in this climate.

"Up to the time of Dr. Davis' death I was with him constantly and took very little preventive measures against contracting the disease. Being so well acquainted with yellow fever, I am of the opinion that the citizens of St. Louis need go to no great expense to quarantine against nor take any measures to prevent people coming here from the plague-stricken portions of the South. Therefore, by showing a little consideration for those people of the South who wish to come to our city to avoid the plague, we will be able to increase our population with a very desirable element and run practically no risk of harm to ourselves."

Dr. Marks says he is immune, having been exposed many times and never attacked by yellow fever. His brother died of the disease in 1867 and all his family except himself and one of his sisters had it. He was in Memphis in 1878, during the epidemic there, and in 1895 was the only physician on board the boat which brought him from New Orleans, and had constant charge of the 20 cases of fever on board.

Steamboat Hired to Care for Suspected Cases in St. Louis.

The Missouri State Board of Health will meet at the Southern Hotel at 10 a. m., Thursday, for the purpose of discussing a quarantine against yellow fever-infected points.

Dr. Robert H. Godier, president of the board, says he has no fear that Missouri is in danger from yellow fever, but that the board will take such precautionary measures as it deems fit.

Wednesday the City of St. Louis leased the steamboat Kennedy until Oct. 1 as an ambulance and hospital boat for isolation and transfer to quarantine of suspected cases.

The city will pay $1400 a month for the boat, including its operation and the hire and maintenance of its crew. The city will pay the cost of additional equipment and the hire of physicians and nurses.

Dr. Snodgrass said he recommended the lease of the boat as the influx of refugees from Southern points made it not unlikely that cases would develop here, and he deemed it best to be prepared to handle such cases.

A suspect will be taken to the boat. If the fever develops, the patient will be taken to quarantine; if the fever does not develop, the patient will be isolated on the boat and, at the proper time, released.

Dr. Snodgrass said the necessity for immediate action was shown a few days ago when a Greek from New Orleans showed signs of the fever. He was isolated in a room over the City Dispensary until it was discovered that the disease was not yellow fever. This circumstance convinced the health authorities of the necessity for better preparation.

Railroads are refusing to accept passengers for points in the quarantined belt unless they are provided with health certificates. The Health Department is issuing these at the rate of about 100 a day.

Where the Yellow Fever Started and Emergency Hospital in New Orleans

CROWDED STEAMER DRIFTS ALL NIGHT

Alton Excursionists Delayed Seven Hours While Families at Home Worry.

Because a 'greenie' pilot ran the excursion steamer Corwin H. Spencer into a bayou, thinking he was pointing for a beacon light, when it was only a camp fire, a big crowd of excursionists spent seven extra hours from 9 p. m. to 4 a. m., on the river, and 100 Alton business men spent the same number of hours on the Alton levee.

The Spencer went up the river Monday evening with a party of Civic Improvement League excursionists. On the down trip, while three miles above Grafton, the pilot, who was making his first trip on that part of the river, made the mistake about the light.

When he found he had run into a bayou, he stopped. As he could not turn around, he backed slowly out and into the main channel.

Then, afraid to take any more chances on a confusion of camp fires and beacon lights, he began to drift. It was 4 a. m. when he got the boat to the wharf.

Meantime husbands, fathers and brothers of women and children on the excursion boat formed an uneasy gathering on the levee. There was no trace of the overdue boat, and many were the theories of disaster that the anxious watchers harassed themselves with. When the boat finally arrived there was a season of rejoicing.

WOMAN TELLS STORY OF ARREST

and dragged me from the room. I screamed for help and fought him. He dragged me to the landing. Then he picked me up in his arms and carried me downstairs.

"He dragged me through the hall and through the door. I pulled back, but he forced me to the street where we waited until a Suburban car came along. He kept his hand on my arm and lifted me up the steps.

"When I sat down, he sat beside me. I shook his hands off and cried out:

"'Take your hands off me!'

"Everybody looked at us then and could see that I was under arrest. I cried almost all the way to the city. At the Sheriff's office I was released when my attorney came and explained that it was a mistake.

"My clothes had literally been torn to shreds by that sheriff. I went to a store and got a new shirtwaist and put it on there. I spent the afternoon with my attorneys and when I arrived home at 6:30 p. m., I found the other deputy sheriff waiting for me."

Mrs. Murphy says that this officer, Deputy Sheriff Kreh, was gentlemanly and treated her with courtesy, although, she says, he did say that she would only have to remain downtown a short time instead of having to go to jail.

Referring to the contention of Mrs. Murphy's attorneys that she was not properly subpenaed and that, therefore her enforced attendance, under an attachment, was illegal, Notary Funkhouser said to the Post-Dispatch:

"I served the subpoena on Mrs. Murphy myself. July 18 I placed the subpoena in her hands at her home. The date first set for the taking of testimony was July 20. It was postponed until the next day. Mrs. Murphy did not appear either day and an attachment was issued for her.

"For 10 days she evaded service. Tuesday morning Deputy Sheriff Frank Malone obtained service on her at her home and took her to the Sheriff's office. Deputy Kreh brought her to my office. After he left she refused to testify and left the office.

"The law creating notaries public gives them the power to compel testimony when taking depositions, but attorneys disagree as to the right of notaries public to issue commitments.

Mrs. Murphy was subpenaed to appear Tuesday morning at the office of Notary Robert Funkhouser in the Carleton Building and give testimony, in the form of a deposition, in the suit instituted by J. S. Poindexter, general agent in St. Louis for the National Life Insurance Co. of Vermont, to recover $6000 on notes alleged to have been assigned to him by Thomas M. Murphy, husband of the witness. This suit is now pending in Judge McDonald's division of the Circuit Court.

The $10,000 damage suit for alleged false arrest, filed in the Circuit Court Tuesday afternoon, attacks Funkhouser's bond, given by the American Security Co. and names John S. Poindexter as a third defendant. The petition states that the defendant, Mrs. Murphy, was restrained of her liberty for a period of three hours while depositions were being taken in Funkhouser's office.

THE YELLOW FEVER SITUATION TODAY

known residents and clubmen of this city, is stricken at his residence on Jackson avenue.

Cases were also reported on Magazine and Constance streets, away uptown, near Louisiana avenue, showing the steady progress it is making uptown.

Business and railroad travel are now so hampered that they are almost paralyzed. Hotels are deserted. People have left the city as fast as the trains could carry them.

The invasion of Louisiana territory by Mississippi soldiers has provoked heated correspondence between Governors Blanchard and Vardaman. Gov. Vardaman has been asked to withdraw his armed guard from Pearl River and stop patrolling Louisiana waters of Lake Borgne, where fishermen have been warned not to trespass on the Mississippi side.

War Between Governors.

Gov. Vardaman has asked for detailed information, and states the invasions complained of have been made without his knowledge.

Utica, Miss., has cut off New Orleans mail. Kerosene oil and lime were boycotted yesterday because shipped from New Orleans. The railroad had to haul them out of the State.

The L. & N. has abandoned its summer excursion to Chicago and St. Louis. The Southern Pacific will run only one train a day hereafter. The Texas Pacific is running two trains. No trains from New Orleans can pass through Texas.

The United States Court of Appeals has been moved from New Orleans to Atlanta because of the plague.

At Memphis Secretary Egan of the Illinois State Board of Health states it is not the intention of the board to close the State to refugees.

Texarkana, Ark., has placed an armed guard about the city because of the case of yellow fever in Shreveport, La.

Southern towns are asking for dates in Northern towns because of closed houses in States adjoining Louisiana.

The appearance of two or three cases yesterday among persons whose business does not carry them into the infected districts downtown has given an impression that the stegomyia is possibly being carried out of the zone of infection through the medium of street cars. Two or three of the city lines cross Canal street, running from the lower end of the city to the upper. They come and go through the section where the fever has been most severe and not improbably are picking up mosquitoes and transporting them to other sections. It has been suggested that the authorities prevent cars from crossing Canal street.

A very severe rain and thunder storm during the night caused the washing away of oil. The war organizations today began again re-oiling all gutters, cisterns and ponds.

Henry McCall, Collector of Customs for New Orleans, has qualified as disbursing agent of the Government funds to be used in an effort to prevent the present fever from developing into an epidemic.

Ample money will be at the disposal of Dr. White and his corps to carry on their work, provision having been made by the last Congress to meet just such an emergency as has developed here.

Detention Camps Crowded.

The detention camps on the railroads outside of New Orleans are filled with refugees. Many of them don't know, even with a certificate of health in their possession, whether they will be permitted to proceed to their destinations after they have been released.

The detention camp on the Louisville & Nasville Railroad, one of the main outlets from the Gulf, was located today on the line between Louisiana and Mississippi. All trains carry armed guards and train inspections extend as far north as Cairo, Ill.

Mobile has tightened its protective cordon and has ordered, in addition to disinfection, a detention of five days for all boats coming from Central and South American ports.

Texarkana, on the line between Arkansas and Texas, has ordered a discontinuance of all trains between Shreveport, La., where a case appeared last night, and Texarkana.

St. Anthony de Padua Church in Rampart and Conti streets, was crowded to overflowing today when the Rev. Father Lorenz started a novena which is to last for three days. Masses will be said and prayers offered for the prevention of the spread of the fever and for the recovery of all those who are ill.

DR. EAGAN TO SEE THAT TRAINS ARE INSPECTED.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CAIRO, Ill., Aug. 2.—Dr. J. A. Eagan, Secretary of the Illinois State Board of Health, returned here today from Memphis, where he had a conference with the authorities regarding yellow fever conditions.

Dead Crown-Sheet and Bolts, Known to Be Menacing, Cause of Explosion.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—A special dispatch from San Diego, Cal., says: "It may be stated authoritatively that the court will find that boiler B of the Bennington exploded not because of unusually high pressure, but because the metal of the crown sheet and the bolts holding that crown sheet in place had become 'dead,' had lost all life and nearly all tensile strength by reason of constant use and the failure to renew the weakened place.

"The court will not censure the officers of the Bennington, but will pass the responsibility to higher authority."

BULLETIN.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Steamer Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, from Bremen, arrived off Fire Island at 10:47 a. m. She will dock early this afternoon. The Russian envoys on board are in good health and spirits.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—A staff correspondent of the Herald on board the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse sends his paper the following dispatch by wireless telegraph:

"M. Witte, the Russian envoy, said Tuesday night:

"'I am afraid that negotiations will be ended within a week as the Japanese conditions will be so intolerable as not to admit of discussion.'"

ON BOARD STEAMSHIP KAISER WILHELM DER GROSSE, via Wireless Telegraph Station at Siasconsett, Mass., Aug. 2.—After a good passage across the Atlantic, Sergius Witte, Russia's envoy to the peace conference with the Japanese representatives at Portsmouth, N. H., is in perfect health.

Speaking of his approaching arrival on American soil, M. Witte said when told he would land today, barring accidents:

"I am happy to visit America, which country I am most anxious to know. My only regret is that I cannot speak English, as I should like thoroughly to appreciate the country whose progress and developments are so interesting and instructive.

"I shall also be glad to have personal association with President Roosevelt, who has reached such a prominent position as a statesman, and to present him the greetings of Emperor Nicholas.

"It has been stated that I am to test the ground for floating a Russian loan in America, and discuss the relations between the two countries, especially regarding commercial affairs. My only mission is the negotiations for peace, but I am quite ready to express my personal opinion on questions affecting the relations between Russia and America, with a view to further strengthening the traditional friendly feeling between St. Petersburg and Washington."

GREAT WESTERN CO. DENIAL

Officers of Gold Mining Concern Answer Allegations of Mismanagement in Suit.

The management of the Great Western Gold Co., defendant in a suit for receiver and annulment of charter, one of the allegations being that the property purchased for $15,000 was capitalized for $12,000,000, has issued a statement denying all the damaging charges.

The statement says the plaintiffs, Ralph Brucker of Chicago, who holds 1000 shares of stock, and Willard F. Snyder of Salt Lake, who claims 500,000 shares, are acting together in efforts to defeat a suit filed by the company for cancellation of the half-million shares which Snyder claims.

It is alleged that the charges of mismanagement made against T. S. Henderson and of irregular transactions by Henderson and Henry Rickel, in which properties were sold by them to the company at greatly exaggerated values, are entirely groundless, denial being made that such sales were effected.

Another charge that the books of the company are badly kept is also denied, the statement being made that every account is properly kept.

The suit is in Untied States Circuit Court. The company's suit for cancellation of Snyder's shares of stock and for recovery of $25,000 paid him, is said to be in Cook County (Ill.) Circuit Court.

Mr. Lawson has just invested in quicksilver and gold and silver mines in the Mascota district of this State. He expects to spend about $500,000 in the development of the properties. F. W. Page is in charge of his mining interests.

"Phenakistoscope," Said Piasa Preceptor; Spelling Bee Ended

Grammar, Lacker, Assertion, Abbreviate, Exaggerate and Dyspepsia Also Claimed Many Victims—A. Voorhees of Jerseyville and J. L. Jeffries of St. Louis Win.

About a hundred persons who took part Tuesday night in an old-fashioned spelling bee at Piasa Chautauqua know now how hard it is to spell easy words.

They grabbed the big words with fine fervor and threw them fair and square, but the little ones tripped them up ingloriously.

When W. S. Neely, platform manager, called on persons who thought they could spell to come to the platform children came readily enough, but the older persons held back and fidgeted.

Finally there were as many spellers as the stage would hold, and Manager Paisley and Miss Ada Terry chose sides.

It looked dark for Mr. Paisley's side when the assembly black cat, the official mascot, walked ceremoniously to the middle of the stage and after scrutinizing both sides, lined up with Miss Terry's bunch.

The words were taken from a blue-backed spelling book of the vintage of '57.

Grammar was the first easy one to prove a hard one. A youth spelled it with an "e" and sat down with a thud.

Four persons inserted a "q" somewhere in lacker to their undoing.

Two persons reasoned that because there was a "c" in concession there should be a "c" in assertion and they had to quit.

Because Mr. Neely economized on the pronunciation of colloquial two spellers felt privileged to do the same with the spelling of it and each left out an "l."

One who tried to spell exaggerate was afraid of exaggerating the "g" and he was thrown out.

The next one abbreviated abbreviate too much by leaving out a "b" and went the same route.

But it was when "dyspepsia" was given out that it was revealed how imperfectly the ante-bellum spelling book had been digested by some of the old persons who had hailed it as an old friend. The variant spelling, "dyspepsy," was given in the book, and although Mr. Neely was careful to pronounce it that way, about ten of the spellers insisted on spelling it with an "ia,' skipping back and forth from "i" to "y" in the first syllable until somebody spelled it according to the book through sheer desperation and awkwardness.

Dyspepsia a Hard One.

There were spellers on the firing line who thought they could make the man who wrote the dictionary look like 30 cents, but they took tumbles before easy ones like these: Jabber, which was spelled with a "g;" melon, in which there was too much "l;" coupon, without the "u;" kidnap, with a "t" thrown in after the "p;" purgation, with an "e" where the "u" ought to have been; dissection, with an "x" instead of a "ct;" conviction, with an "s" instead of a "t;" immersion, with an "e" instead of an "im;" philanthropy, with an "h" too many; soliloquy, with the "u" left out; eternity, with a "turn" instead of a "tern;" disparity, with an "e" where the left "i" had a right to be; temerity, with an "i" too many; aquiline, which was deprived of an "i," and then, as if in mockery, given a "c" that was not coming to it; seal, which was also given a surplus "c," and conceive and perceive, in which the "e" and the "i" mixed things.

Mrs. J. E. Martin was the last survivor on Miss Terry's side. She held her own for some time against eight of Mr. Paisley's huskiest spellers. When she gave out, the eight were taunted into fighting it out among themselves.

Albert Voorhees of Jerseyville and J. L. Jeffries of St. Louis stayed afloat the longest. When they were asked to spell phenakistoscope they both gasped and sank together.

DIES FROM SHOT FIRED BY FRIEND

Injury of Man Mistaken for Burglar July 4 Proves to Be Fatal.

Thomas L. Savage died at the City Hospital Wednesday morning from the effects of a gunshot wound inflicted by a friend July 4.

Savage, who was 64 years old, was the keeper of a boarding house, and Joseph H. Sweeney, aged 32, was a roomer. It was feared that burglars might invade the house, and as Mr. Savage was accustomed to move about the house of a night, it was arranged that he should always give a signal, to prevent any of the inmates shooting at him.

On the morning of July 4 he forgot to give the warning that it was he, and Sweeney, thinking a burglar was in the house, fired. Statements made by the man who was shot exonerated Sweeney, who had boarded for several years in the house and had come to regard the aged Mr. Savage almost in the light of a father.

SALOON REVENUE LESS.

Quarterly Report of Comptroller Shows Decrease of $32,000.

Comptroller Player's quarterly report for the first three months of the fiscal year shows a decrease of $32,000 in the city's revenue from the sale of dramshop licenses.

At the commencement of the present fiscal year, the Comptroller estimated tha there would be a decrease of about $35,000 on the year. He expected the decrease because of the enforcement of the Sunday closing law and the closing up of many saloons in the vicinity of the World's Fair grounds.

CARS--BROADWAY TO ST. CHARLES

Absorption of "All Saints' Line" by United Railways Officially Announced.

THROUGH SERVICE NOW

"Patrons Mustn't Use St. Charles Cars for Local Trips," Says Beggs.

The rumor in financial circles that the St. Louis, St. Charles & Western Railway had been acquired by the United Railways and would be operated as a part of the latter system, published exclusively in the Post-Dispatch Tuesday, has been verified by the announcement of the formal transfer made to John I. Beggs, President of the United Railways, by Festus J. Wade, who purchased the property at trustee's sale at Clayton for $495,000.

Mr. Wade had no interest in the transaction except as agent, it is stated, and the money paid by him was put up by the United Railways.

The old Colonial Trust Co. held a mortgage as trustee for holders of a $500,000 bond issue, and it was under a foreclosure of this mortgage that the sale was made to Mr. Wade.

Mr. Beggs says that a thorough service will be operated between St. Charles and the downtown district of St. Louis. The line has never been operated heretofore farther than Wellston, its present terminus.

The success of this service, Mr. Beggs says, will depend upon patrons not using the St. Charles cars for local traffic.

"The tracks will be connected at Wellston," Mr. Beggs states, "and a double loup will be built for the joint use of the Easton, Olive and St. Charles lines. A new station will be built at Wellston and a pretty park will be formed there. The regular rate to St. Charles will remain the same as at present."

Miss Rowan Reinstated.

The appointment of Miss Elizabeth Rowan as chief clerk at City Hospital, made by Acting Health Commissioner Snodgrass was approved Tuesday afternoon at a meeting of the Board of Health.

FAR EASTERN SIBERIA UNDER JAP'S CONTROL

Lands Huge Army at Port Castries and Overruns District of Ussuri, North of Vladivostok.

GUNBOAT FLEET OFF MOUTH OF THE AMUR

Russians Unable to Resist Occupation of Territory, Retire —Rains Stop Movements of Armies in Manchuria.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg received here this morning says that the Japanese have appeared at so many points along the coast of Ussuri, the Siberian province north of Vladivostok, that it has been abandoned by the Russians.

Having only nine battalions of troops in the province with a reserve regiment from Blagovestchenk for reinforcements, and with no possibility of securing further reinforcements on account of the movements of Generals Oyama and Hasegawa threatening Linevitch and Vladivostok, the Russian commander in the district made discretion the better part of valor and retired as fast as the Japanese pressed into the territory.

There are now few Russian troops in the Ussuri district. Being able to do nothing against the Japanese there they are being drawn in for the defense of Vladivostok.

The War Office is advised from Nicolaievsk that the Japanese are establishing a naval and military base at Port Castries and that they have landed 20,000 men there and are landing more every day.

They can strike either north toward Nicolaievsk or south to Khabarovsk and indeed can menace Vladivostok itself.

A flotilla of gunboats, says the St. Petersburg correspondent, has been sighted off the mouth of the Amur River. It is feared that the Japanese will establish themselves there. Russia is powerless at the present time to prevent it. If the mouth of the Amur is seized the Japanese will control the whole of northeastern Trans-Siberia, excepting Vladivostok.

Vladivostok is preparing to hold out to the last extremity. Gen. Linevitch is depended on to prevent the fall of the city by holding Oyama's huge army in check. If ever this force is enabled to reinforce Hasegawa at will then the fate of Vladivostok can be easily seen.

Operations are greatly interfered with at the present time by the heavy rains which are falling throughout Manchuria, making extended movements impossible. It has entirely stopped the fighting on the Tumen River.

Several bridges are reported as washed away and fear is expressed for those Russian troops south of the river.

They are in danger of being cut off and surrounded while no help can be given them and they cannot escape on account of the swollen stream.

NO HORRID GUNS FOR US, SAY GIRLS

Military Drill Is Spoiled When the Feminine Members See Unloaded Firearms.

ARE NOT AFRAID OF FLAGS

But Real Guns, Especially When They Are Unloaded, Are Entirely Different.

Guns! Horrors! Use real, sure enough guns? Never!

Ultimatum of drill girls.

The sudden resignation of five young women has caused the military drill of the East St. Louis Fraternal Mystic Circle to be cut out of the secret work of the lodge and left off of the program at its entertainments.

The reasons given for the unexpected resignations are that they were afraid to handle the guns during the drill.

About seven weeks ago a company of 12 women was selected for the military drill, all being 5 feet 7 inches in height, and of commanding appearance. The drill was to be used as an aid to the degree team work in initiations, and also to be a feature at lodge entertainments. Arthur Beeson of East St. Louis drilled the company, whose members, for six weeks patiently rehearsed three times each week, using a flag instead of a gun in going through the military maneuvers.

By hard work and regular practice the company had perfected the art of marching and making crosses, stars, circles, etc., in the drill. The uniforms had been made, consisting of white costumes and white military caps. Tuesday, July 25, was to have been a full dress rehearsal, and the final drill before the company's appearance at a lodge entertainment announced for the following Friday.

Drill Master Beeson instructed the members of the company to appear promptly on the next Tuesday, as the new costumes and guns had arrived and would be used at the dress rehearsal.

When it was explained that guns were a necessary feature of a military drill the girls struck.

At rollcall on Tuesday night there were five absentees, Misses Minnie Elsbeck, Celia Baum, Emma Elsbeck, Gussie Elsbeck and Audrie Evans failing to respond when their names were called. And to make matters worse, the company's leader, Miss Gussie Elsbeck, was among the missing.

Without guns, without a leader, and with five members gone, the military drill would be a hopeless failure.

As a feature of Friday's entertainment it was consequently called off, and the company is now being reorganized. The new members are notified in advance that 22-caliber Winchester rifles will be used in the drill—but they will not be loaded.

ONE EVERY DAY TILL CURED

TAKES NO DARE AND SHOOTS BYSTANDER

Bartender Shows His Nerve by Firing Into Floor and Porter Is Hit.

"Never took a dare in my life!"

"Dare you to shoot through the floor."

Bang! Zzip!

William Wyman, aged 65, porter in the saloon of B. J. Cantoni, 13 South Sixth street, is in City Hospital in serious condition with a bullet in his thigh.

Wyman is not the man who never takes a dare, nor is he the man who dared him. He is merely the innocent bystander.

It was Cornelius H. Mooney, 112 South Sixteenth street, bartender in Cantoni's saloon, that refused to be stumped Tuesday afternoon. He is in the hold-over awaiting the result of Wyman's injury.

William S. Gray, 214 South Eleventh street, is the man who suggested the feat of courage by which Mooney injured Wyman. The bullet glanced from the floor and struck the aged porter, who was several feet away.

Woman Struck by Street Car.

Mrs. Mary A. Gavin of 4161 St. Louis avenue was taken home bruised about the arms and body after she was struck by a Suburban car at Sixth and Locust streets Tuesday evening.

St. Louis Girl Favorite at Elaborate Costume Ball

Given Second Prize When Spectators Give Her Biggest Demonstration of All.

Miss Gussie Thorn, 1126 Whittier street, spending the summer at South Haven, Mich., was the winner of second prize at an elaborate costume ball given there. The prize was offered for the wearer of the handsomest and most characteristic Japanese costume. The failure of Miss Thorn to win the first prize called forth the following interesting observance from a South Haven newspaper:

"The young lady who attracted the most attention, and who received the heartiest applause, was dressed in a beautiful blue satin gown embroidered in dragons, and it soon became evident that the gown was no makeshift, but a genuine imported costume, such as is worn by the better class of Japanese ladies. Her escort was dressed in white, and the two were conceded by all to be the most attractive and appropriately dressed couple on the floor. Several others, who wore the more gaudy costumes of cheaper material, received their measure of applause, but the little dark-haired lady in the blue gown was unquestionably the favorite of the audience."

TAKES HER LIFE AT HOME OF FRIEND

Young Widow Was Despondent Over Ill Health and Death of Husband and Father.

Despondent because of ill-health and grieving over the recent death of her husband and her father, Mrs. Annie McGhee, 30 years old, 2415 McNair avenue, chose the home of her girlhood friend, Mrs. Hattie Stone, 2321 South Jefferson avenue, as the place in which to end her life. She drank carbolic acid there Tuesday night and died within a short time.

Mrs. McGhee went to her friend's home Tuesday evening and announced her intention of remaining all night. She retired about 9 o'clock. A short time later she came into the room where Mrs. Stone was reading, startling the latter by her unexpected entrance.

Just as Mrs. Stone detected the odor of acid, Mrs. McGhee reached out her hand, clasped that of her friend, and, saying "Good-by," fell into her arms.

An ambulance was summoned and conveyed Mrs. McGhee to the City Hospital. She died there in the reception room.

"COP" FINDS LOST BULLET IN HIS LEG

Does Not Know He Is Hurt Until Wound Is Discovered; Pain Intense.

"Bang!" said the revolver.

"Where'd the bullet go?" asked the policeman, looking all around the room.

"Maybe it hit you," somebody suggested.

"Don't you suppose I'd know if I was shot?"

"Better examine yourself."

Policeman Joe Bux of the Belleville force, who had just dropped his revolver on the floor of George Neubarth's barber shop Wednesday, patted himself on all parts of his anatomy until he reached his left leg, just below the thigh.

"Wow!" he remarked. "I AM shot!"

He was. The bullet had passed straight through the flesh of his leg. It was a 38-caliber bullet and when the policeman knew that he was hurt the pain became intense. His wound is not considered dangerous by the physicians at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, where he was taken.

GIRLS FIT HOME AND COOK LUNCHEON IN ST. LOUIS SCHOOL

Boys Are Not Compelled to Pore Over Books in This Institution, as It Is One of Modern Vacation Kind—Visitors Give Praise.

St. Louis has this summer a modern vacation school. It has been carried on by the Civic Improvement League, which raised the funds by private subscription, and secured from the Board of Education the use of the Jefferson School Building at Ninth and Wash streets.

The league took as models the successful vacation schools of New York, Boston and Chicago, and with the aid of an exceptional body of teachers it has done good work. For six weeks over 400 children have been given pleasant recreative employment in a school where freedom and happiness have reigned.

Boys have taken manual training; girls, cooking, sewing and housekeeping, and both have made baskets, painted pictures, sung songs and played games. There have been no books, for this is vacation time. This industrial work has attracted into a schoolhouse children who had free choice between that and the streets or playgrounds.

Girls Fit Up Home.

Perhaps the most interesting experiment of the vacation school has been the housekeeping course. Seats were removed from one of the schoolrooms and 20 girls were brought in to help make that bare place into a comfortable-looking home. They first sewed together two strips of burlap, and with this as a partition divided the room into two parts.

One side was then fitted up as a bedroom and the other as a dining room, most of the furniture being borrowed. A few pictures, some white window curtains, hemmed by the girls themselves, some dishes and chairs completed a simple and neat little home, such as any one of the pupils could have at very small cost. In this comfortable place 40 girls have learned the plain but varied duties of a household and the beauty of order and care in the home.

It is not remarkable that visitors have come in large numbers to this school and gone away full of praise. They have always found happy children and much beautiful work. Indeed, the quality of some of the things has surprised the teachers themselves. But the most impressive single fact, spoken of by almost every visi or of the summer, has been the personality of the teachers. All of them are distinguished for some special excellency and many are acknowledged to be among the best in the city.

Girls Cook Luncheon.

The Vacation School is now closing a six weeks' session. During that time it has gone on two excursions to O'Fallon Park, where the children played games, worked on baskets, collected specimens for Nature Study and ran races. It has also had several special days for visitors, one for the executive board of the Civic Improvement League and the Board of Education, and another for the teachers of St. Louis. Last Friday was Flower Day and from some forty visitors enough flowers were received to give each child a good-sized bouquet. At noon on this day a number of well-known people were entertained at a luncheon cooked and served by the Domestic Science girls.

Next Friday will be Exhibit Day. All the articles made by the children will be shown to visitors and the teachers are hoping for a large attendance. A certain number of things will be put up for sale, after the children are supplied, and a few samples are picked out for the Vacation School Museum. All the people of St. Louis are invited to come on this day and see what has been accomplished in this new school.

SEES HIS BROTHER DROWN HIMSELF

Search of Several Hours Fails to Recover Body of Dennis Burns.

George Burns, 1318 North Broadway, preparing to get into a skiff at the foot of Dickinson street Tuesday night for a fishing trip across the river, saw a man about 100 yards away taking off his hat and coat.

"I believe that's my brother," he said.

The man jumped into the water and sank. Burns ran to the spot and found that the coat and hat were those of his brother, Dennis Burns, aged 27, 1310 North Broadway.

Burns did not come to the surface again and his brother and others of the fishing party endeavored for hours to recover the body, but could not. The clothes were taken to the Carr Street Police Station, where they were identified by the wife of Dennis Burns. She said he left home Tuesday evening in good spirits.

RECORD MONTH IN BUILDING LINES

Six Hundred Permits Are Issued for New Structures in St. Louis.

Permits were taken out in St. Louis during July for new buildings in greater number than any previous month in the history of the city. The total cost of new buildings for which permits were issued is more than double the amount spent in July, 1904.

Six hundred permits were issued for new buildings, and 192 permits for making repairs during the month.

The estimated cost of the new buildings is $2,219,026, and of the alterations, additions and repairs, $155,289. The cost of new buildings is thus $1,379,254 more than for July, 1904.

This is the first vacation the Judge has had for several years.

FIRE SCARE AT CITY HOSPITAL

Burning Grease and Ringing of the Call Bell Frightens Women Patients.

The continued ringing of the big call bell simultaneously with the burning of grease on the kitchen stoves caused a slight fire scare in some of the wards of the City Hospital Wednesday morning.

The bell was rung to announce the arrival of the paymaster, and at the same moment the smoke from the kitchen drifted into the woman's ward and other sections of the hospital.

Many of the patients became frightened, and the nurses, who were on their way to the paymaster, hurried back to compose them. Their reassurances soon restored order.

DOORKEEPER FOR CONFEDERATES DIES

Col. L. H. Fitzhugh Expires on Train While En Route From Texas to Ohio.

Col. L. H. Fitzhugh, who served as Sergeant-at-Arms of the Confederate Senate at Richmond during the Civil War and afterwards served a term as doorkeeper of the House of Representatives at Washington, died suddenly on an inbound Iron Mountain train, which reached St. Louis at 11 o'clock last night.

Col. Fitzhugh and his son were traveling from Texas to Ohio. The son took charge of the body and will send it to Dallas for interment. Col. Fitzhugh was a native of Virginia, and settled in Texas after the Civil War. He operated extensively in the Texas oil fields. He was 76 years old. The stroke came as the train left De Soto. Bright's Disease is believed to have caused death.

July License Receipts Grow.

July license collections amounted to $348,191.49 this year, as against $78,458.77 in July, 1904. The largest amount was from merchants, $424,897.55, while manufacturers paid $386,196.49. Among the smaller items was one of $40 for flying horses. Milk registration netted $18.

WAS HIS OWN MINISTER

Suit Over Estate of Broker Shows He Performed His Own Marriage Ceremony.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Mrs. Florence Moffitt, an actress, has begun action for a dower right in the estate of John L. Norton, stock broker, recently deceased.

The estate approaches $500,000. The marriage is denied by Isabelle Canterbury, Norton's half sister, and Z. B. Schumacher, a cousin. Mrs. Moffitt's two daughters by a former husband were witnesses to the alleged marriage, which they declare was performed, without minister, justice or license.

"Florence, I now take to be my wife," Ruth and Marie Moffitt declare Mr. Norton said to their mother.

"Well, if you wish it that way, I can trust you and I'm satisfied," replied Mrs. Norton.

GIRL RIDER KILLED.

Thrown From Horse She Was Forcing Into Torrent.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ROSWELL, N. M., Aug. 2.—Accompanied by her sister, Miss Mabel Rogers was returning home from Lincoln yesterday when thrown by her horse into the Bonito River. When her body was picked up the neck was broken and life extinct.

The stream was a raging torrent, made so by mountain rains, and the horse bucked when the rider forced him into the water against his will.

The fatality occurred at the same ford where five members of the Mack Murray family were drowned in a mountain cloudburst a few weeks ago.

The mountain streams west of here have all been on rampages recently, owing to rains unprecedented in their violence and volume. The United Sttaes mail hack and two Mexican outfits were upset in the Bonito Saturday and one Mexican was drowned.

CHANGE RECEIVER'S FILING

Correction Made in Inventory of Salmon Bank as Presented to Court.

Following the publication last Sunday in the Post-Dispatch of the history of the Salmon Bank, as shown by the records, the receiver's inventory, filed in the Circuit Court of Henry County, has been corrected to show that an overdraft of $500, formerly charged against "Owen Brothers" is properly due from "Bowen Brothers," thus showing that the attorneys of the bank had no connection with this overdraft.

Dr. John Powers, formerly an employe of the Salmon Bank, has published the following card in the Clinton Democrat:

"In Sunday's issue of the Post-Dispatch in a history of the Salmon Bank matter, the fallowing appears:

"'Dr. John Powers, employe of bank, note $500.

"'L. D. Powers, brother of above, note $500.'

"The first item was simply a note on which I was merely security, given for 60 days and paid before maturity by the principal, who was easily worth ten times the amount of the note.

"As to the second item, L. D. Powers owns at least 240 acres of unincumbered real estate worth $50 an acre, and of this loan I had no knowledge till after the bank failure."

ECONOMY IS ONE CURE

Senator Cullom Believes Reduction of Expenditures Best Way to Wipe Out Deficit.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Economy in public expenditures will be the cure advocated by many prominent Republicans for the steadily growing Treasury deficit.

Efforts will be made to cut down the expenditures by thirty or forty million dollars rather than enact legislation by which the revenue can be increased that amount.

When Senator Cullom was asked how the deficit can be reduced or prevented he said:

"We have got to get down to a more economic basis. We can pare expenditures a good many millions a year by hard and careful work and not stint the Government, either. I am opposed to increased taxes, especially the stamp taxes of the Spanish war."

BROKER'S BODY IN A WAGON

Dumped Into Vestibule by Expressman Whom New York Policemen Seek.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The police have been unable to find the two express men who brought home the body of James A. Cleary and threw it into the vestibule of his house last night, where his wife found it on returning from a shopping tour.

The men drove up in a covered express wagon and lifted Cleary out. Then they drove away.

Cleary was worth $25,000 and was more or less of a sport. The police believe he was murdered.

College Professor a Vagrant.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Charles Rouxel, a professor of belles lettres in a South American university and a man of refinement and culture, was sent to the workhouse for a month yesterday for vagrancy. Stranded in Honduras after touring the world subsequent to completing his education in Paris, the prisoner told Magistrate Cornell that he became third keeper of the treasury in a South American State. Later he became chief of mathematics of the university. A change in the administration caused him to flee the country.

CONSIDER AMENDING LAW

Attorney-General and President Agree U. S. Criminal Statutes Need Changes.

OYSTER BAY, Aug. 2.—Attorney-General Moody, who has been here to see the President, said that they considered in a general discussion of the laws bearing on prosecutions in United States courts some necessary amendments to the criminal laws of the United States.

They agreed, he said, that Congress ought to make certain amendments to existing statutes, as the law under which the courts are now operating rendered it often difficult to reach a man who might be guilty of wrong-doing.

Mr. Moody said it was far more difficult to take a man from one United States court's jurisdiction into another United States court's jurisdiction than it is for the State of Maine to get a criminal it wants from the State of California.

SAYS COPPER POTS WERE "JUGGLED"

Monticello Hotel Manager Has Men Who Took Them to Mend Arrested.

For alleged efforts to substitute brass pots for three big copper pots of the Monticello Hotel kitchen, three of the four men who took them for repair are in jail.

L. C. Irvine, manager of the hotel, caused the arrest of the men, Tom Bimbo, Sam Demetri and Yauco Demetri, and Wednesday he got warrants against them and against John Marza, said to be the fourth member of the party, charging attempts to defraud.

The story he told the Assistant Prosecuting Attorney is that the four men went to the hotel and got the copper pots, agreeing to put new copper bottoms in them.

He says they brought back three other pots with much heavier brass bottoms, and tried to deliver them and collect $240, the price of 300 pounds of copper bottoms.

Irvine said the bottoms were not copper, but brass; and those were not his pots, anyhow.

He said he eventually found his pots in the wagon of the pot menders, and then sought their arrest.

What Pure Food Laws Will Mean

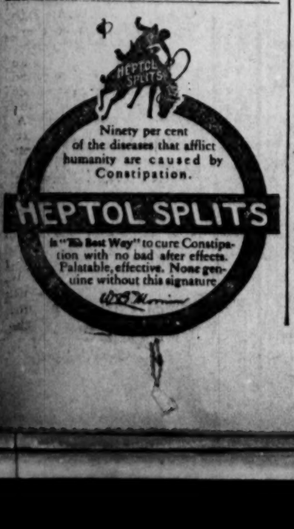

They Will Protect the People Against Adulteration and Substitution That Often Proves Injurious to Health and Is Absolutely Dishonest.

Every sane, wholesome-minded person should welcome adequate, equitable pure food laws. Every law-abiding citizen interested as he should be in the advancement of his country and the welfare of his fellowmen as well as himself, should lend his every effort to the passage and enforcement of such pure food laws as will make adulteration and injurious substitution impossible.

Men will go far for money, and in the substitution of certain ingredients in food products there is sometimes much money, consequently great temptation to adulterate or substitute with consequent evil effects upon the innocent and unsuspecting citizen who purchases the article for what it claims to be.

The substitution and adulteration has usually been done at the instance and under the supervision of highly paid chemists, who, through this special line of study, have become scientific experts in counterfeiting the real article with a cheap substitute, or in substituting for some more or less expensive ingredients of a food product a cheap and often seriously injurious factor. Such things should be stopped and at once. No real law, no honest effort can be made too severe if it is aimed at stopping at once and forever the manufacture and sale of injuriously adulterated food products or substitutes.

In these days of adulterated foods and food products such a food as is known to be pure and wholesome is indeed welcome. We have heard of many breakfast foods and cereal products—some broadly advertised as whole products, others as cure-alls for every disease known to man. No doubt they are all good and possessed of some merit, but most of them are manufactured with some foreign sweetening agent to make them palatable. Among all the breakfast and cereal foods offered the public today, we believe we are warranted in saying that Malta-Vita is the only food that is simply and wholly pure grain product and nothing else, except a little salt. Malta-Vita as it comes to you from the factory is all of the wheat. It has been thoroughly cleaned, steamed to gelatinize the starch, then added to it is barley malt made from selected barley—this acting upon the starch turns it into maltose or malt sugar, pronounced by physicians and food experts the finest, purest, most healthful sweetening agent known. Then the grain of wheat is rolled out flat into a thin wafer flake and baked in the ovens. It comes to you fresh and pure and sweet—absolutely nothing but a grain product prepared in the cleanest and most wholesome way and turned into the most delicious whole wheat food that can be found. Malta-Vita is for sale by nearly all grocers. It costs but 10 cents a package for the same big package for which you used to pay fifteen cents.

HEISZER PLAYS FOR WEST END HEIGHTS

MacDowell's Former Leading Lady Announces "Sapho," "Du Barry" and "Tess."

The contest at the St. Louis summer theaters to see who could outdo the blood-red August moon with the temperature of the entertainment offered ended this morning, when Miss Ethel Fuller, the new star at West End Heights, announced "Sapho," "Du Barry" and "Tess of the D'Urbervilles" for successive weeks, beginning next Sunday.

The contest had been rather spirited up to the moment of Miss Fuller's prostration of all competition. Melbourne MacDowell, whose leading lady she has been at Suburban Garden up to this week, has been producing the tragedies of Sardou, and the Stanley players, at Eclipse Park, have been playing tropical pieces like "Sherlock Holmes" and "Tracey, the Outlaw."

The announcement of the repertoire at West End Heights settles the question as to which garden gets the moon. The moon will turn redder and redder than ever next Sunday night, and will take up a position immediately over the theater at West End Heights.

* * *

The publication of thermometer readings to prove St. Louis a summer resort is unnecessary. The quality of entertainment given at our summer gardens is proof enough. We have the same drama here in August that they have in Duluth, Montreal and Godhaven in December.

* * *

I understand that Miss Fuller has made a stir at West End Heights; that she walked upon the stage for the first rehearsal of "Sapho," took charge of things and whirled the company through the performance in a way that left them breathless and whisperingly exclaiming:

"Zounds, what a woman!"

I also understand that she has electrified the management, and that the owners and attaches of the garden are rushing around helter-skelter for new scenery, more scenery, more players and all the odds and ends necessary to a real performance.

Bravo, Miss Fuller!

Here is an actress of singular dramatic force. She will work a transformation at West End Heights. The very first night she walked upon the stage at Suburban Garden that portion of her audience which was at all esoteric knew her for an exceptional woman. Her engagement at West End Heights in the virtual capacity of a star is a great opportunity for her. We shall see what she will make of it. She is bound to make something—perhaps a great deal.

* * *

This is a month of eclipses: There will be an eclipse of the sun Aug. 30, and Miss Stella Tracey, soubrette of the Delmar Opera Company and pretty sprite extraordinary, is this week eclipsing almost all the rest of the troupe in the part of Abydos, the boy.

* * *

The Shubert-Fiske-Belasco allies are adding to their forces every day. Within the last week they have reported the acquisition of a theater at Trenton by the Shuberts and the beginning of a new theater to be built for them at Kansas City; the signing of Edna Wallace Hopper by Belasco, who will star her in "The Heart of Maryland," and the admission of Frank Perley to an interest in the alliance.

* * *

At no time since the opening of the Alps has so brilliant an audience gathered as during this week, the particular magnet being the appearance of Grace Van Studdiford. Her numbers include Luckstone's famous waltz song, "Delight," "Believe Me, If All Those Endearing Young Charms," arranged by Hatton to Tom Moore's verses, "Cupid and I," from the "Serenade" and a song which fits her like a glove, written for her by a Cleveland composer with an impossible name, entitled "What Might Have Been."

* * *

The Igorrotes and Col. Hopkins' Vaudeville artists are playing opposition to each other at the Highlands this week. Sunday night it was nip and tuck between the two. Forty-eight hundred people went into the Igorrote Village and 4100 passed into the Pavilion. The friendly rivalry between the actors and the head-hunting savages is going on all week. No change will be made in the Igorrote Village next week, but the vaudeville will undergo a variation, and a number of good acts are coming. The headliner will be Mme. Colgrove with her trained horse and dog, one of the most sensational acts in vaudeville. Leah Russell, the juggling Matthieus and Wood and Ray are good cards. Andy Breen and F. L. Rogers will appear in "The Primmy Donny," an original skit by Edwards and Brumby, two well-known newspaper men of St. Louis, in which Mr. Breen will introduce Alfred Robyn's latest song, "Jackey Jim."

* * *

On account of conflicting engagements the Buckingham Quartette, which was to appear at the Alps for this week, will not appear until the week beginning Aug. 7, when they will be heard in two numbers nightly. This quartette is composed of four of the members of the Apollo Club—John A. Dauer, first tenor; Wallace Niedringhaus, first bass; Robert F. Smith, second tenor; Charles A. Roe, second bass.

* * *

Agility is the main feature of the Okabes' work in Mannion's Park this week. These eight Japs are truly marvelous in hand equilibristics, one of them dancing about with his feet in the air with as much ease as some folks display on their pedal extremities. Maceo's dog, "Chicago" is another feature of the bill. This doggie cries for his "mamma" as tearfully as any child. Gertie Morton sings some coon songs and the biograph shows new views. Next week the Freeze Brothers, dexterous manipulators of tambourines, are coming, with Smith and Fuller, the popular musical team, and Jones and Waltone.

PARTNERS FALL OUT.

One Baker Hit the Other and Is Fined $5 in Court.

It cost John Galvin $5 and costs to choke and punch his business partner, Peter Ahlheim, because of a dispute concerning the delivery of bread.

The men have a bakery and confectionery at 1112 North King's highway. Monday the dispute arose, and Galvin caught Ahlheim by the collar and beat him. Galvin says he struck only once, but Ahlheim says, after the fracas was ended, he counted 40 scratches on his face.

The fine was assessed in Dayton Street Police Court Wednesday.

HUSBAND DID NOT LIKE NEIGHBORS?

Mrs. Cunningham, in Divorce Complaint, Says He Was Habitually Dictatorial.

Alleging that he was "habitually dictatorial and unreasonable," and that he dictated what clothes she should wear and when she should wear them, Mrs. Judell Elizabeth Crammond Cunningham Wednesday filed suit for divorce form Arthur L. Cunningham.

She avers that they were married Sept. 4, 1902, and separated in June, 1905, after her husband had entertained guests at their home, 3715 Hartford street, during her absence in such an informal manner that the neighbors were indignant.

Mrs. Cunningham alleges that her husband, in addition to being "habitually dictatorial," was arbitrary and unreasonable, and that he prohibited her association with neighbors, although the said neighbors were entirely respectable. She alleges abuse. She asks for alimony and the restoration of her maiden name of Judelle Elizabeth Crammond.

FIRE HORSE HAS TROTTING RECORD

Ben Hur, 2:16, With Proclivity for Running Away, Helps Pull Hose Reel.

Ben Hur, bay trotter with a track record of 2:16½, who delighted to run away so well that Commissioner of Supplies Joseph Boyce advertised him for sale, has been saved from the ignominy of being bought for $51 by Fire Chief Swingley.

Ben Hur is a fine-looking horse, without a blemish, and stands 16½ hands high. He was bought for $200 after his track days were done and was used to draw the buggy of the building department inspectors. He made good time, but when his drivers forgot to tie him he usually ran away and demolished the buggy. He was found an expensive luxury and was advertised for sale.

The fact that his runaway record rivaled that of Dewey Trautman made the bids for him small, $51 being the highest offered.

Chief Swingley saw the horse, inquired about his history and decided that the proper place for him was the hose reel, where he could run away at least twice a day. Commissioner Boyce was glad to have "Ben Hur" transferred from his department.

HERE'S ANOTHER BABY WHOSE LIFE WAS SAVED

Pure milk saved Rose Beihl, the little daughter who is the light of the humble home at 1114 Chouteau avenue. Rose is a dear, wee midget. She is only 6 months old. Her father, Edward Beihl, does not live at home. He toils in the Illinois coal mines and Baby Rose is the sole solace of the girl mother.

When Mabel Jones, Baby Rose's mother, ran away and married Edward Biehl, folks said it was a pretty romance. She was only 16 years old and she had to dress in her mother's skirt to deceive the marriage clerk at Belleville.

Love's glamor faded. Today Mrs. Biehl is working in a coffee factory. Baby Rose is at home in the care of her grandmother.

Two months ago Baby Rose became ill. She refused to drink the condensed milk that was offered her. She cried and cried. Mrs. Beihl watched with her heart in her throat beside the sick bed. But the baby grew thinner and thinner. She would take no nourishment. Time after time they offered her the bottle of condensed milk and each time baby refused to drink it.

Mrs. Biehl tried dairy milk. She warmed the milk and cooed to the baby when she offered it. Rose fought the bottle. Then Mrs. Biehl tried barley water.

Baby Rose drank a little of this, and then threw the bottle aside. For three days she did not take anything. Then Mrs. Biehl, who had read of pasteurized milk supplied by the Post-Dispatch Free Ice and Pure Milk Fund got three five-ounce bottles of the purified milk for baby.

Rose drank the milk and slept peacefully that night. That was a week ago. Baby Rose is a healthy midget now. She has gained a pound and a half since she has used the pure milk.

"The doctor said she would die," Mrs. Beihl said, "before I began to use the pure milk. It saved baby's life."

Her Good Reason.

"Why do you think she has no intention of marrying him? She permits him to spend all of his money on her."

"I know it; that's why I think so."

Married Women

Every woman covets a shapely, pretty figure, and many of them deplore the loss of their girlish forms after marriage. The bearing of children is often destructive to the mother's shapeliness. All of this can be avoided, however, by the use of Mother's Friend before baby comes, as this great liniment always prepares the body for the strain upon it, and preserves the symmetry of her form. Mother's Friend overcomes all the danger of child-birth, and carries the expectant mother safely through this critical period without pain. It is woman's greatest blessing. Thousands gratefully tell of the benefit and relief derived from the use of this wonderful remedy. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Our little book, telling all about this liniment, will be sent free.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—Supervisors have given the August fight permit to the San Francisco Club. Willie Britt and Sam Berger were on hand to urge the claims of the Western Club. The officials still believe that Coffroth has some interest in the club, and in pursuance of their antipathy to him refused Britt and Berger the permit. Berger wanted the permit for his match between Jimmy Britt and "Battling" Nelson. Failing to get the permit he may take the fight to Coffroth's arena at Colma.

KEEP RECORDS OF PLAYERS' BREAKS

Pulliam's Secretary Has Both Versions of All Disturbances Between Men and Umpires.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—"We are keeping a regular Court House record of cases that are reported to us by umpires these days," said John Heydler, President Pulliam's efficient and accommodating secretary, "so that in case a player tries to repeat the experiment of Manager McGraw of the New Yorks, by going into the courts to have a fine removed because he was not given a chance to show his side of the case, we can show that he was given every opportunity to establish his innocence.

As soon as a player is put out of the game by an umpire now, he is requested to submit his version of the affair. This is then weigned against the evidence of the umpire, and the case decided upon its merits. If the misdemeanor warrants a long suspension and a large fine, the punishment is meted out as soon as the evidence of both parties is in and the documents pertaining to the case are filed away at National League headquarters for use at any future time when the player may decide that he wants his money back.

Although this new practice has been in vogue only a short time, we have quite a number of documents on file already, including statements and affidavits from Manager Kelley of the Reds, whose answer to the charges made against him by Umpire Bausewine are the most complete that the National League legal department has received as yet.

Incidentally, it might be added, that these papers submitted by Kelley secured dismissal of the charges that had been made against him. Other players have not been so fortunate, and before the season is over I suppose our record of testimony in cases against players will be quite formidable."

RUHLIN WILL MEET HART, IF HE WINS

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—Billy Madden, manager of Gus Ruhlin, claims that he has a promise from the officials of the San Francisco Athletic Club to match Hart and Ruhlin, in event of Ruhlin winning the coming bout with McCormick.

Madden said this morning: "Jeffries is simply resting up. He will surely re-enter the ring as soon as a suitable opponent turns up."

SPORT FLASHLIGHTS

If a baseball team, after winning four straight games, is compelled to practice an hour in the morning and then is defeated in the afternoon, who is the manager?

It is said that the parents of Marvin Hart, who was named after a minister, cannot understand why their son is following prize fighting as a means of livelihood. There are others who share this incomprehension.

There is a New Jersey policeman who challenges the world at the novel feat of holding five baseballs in one hand. We do not know whether or not he would be willing to leave the force. Managers Burke and McAleer please notice.

And now comes the report that "Pop" Anson, one-time idol of the fans and the greatest player of them all, but now a dignified city clerk in Chicago, has put down his official foot upon the attendance at baseball games by those in his employ. The first man to suffer a fine for disobedience of the great Anse's ukase was an old employe, who in years past, was wont to root for the King of Batters—who shattered the atmosphere yelling "robber" when the umpire called a decision against Anson. The irony of it! As soon would have looked for an edict from Washington making bear hunting a capital crime.

Two Indian pitchers basked in the rays of the limelight Tuesday. At Detroit, Justus relieved Donovan in the eight inning and held the Nationals to one hit; at Joplin, Mo., Sam Morris shut out Sedalia with the remarkable record of only 27 men facing him during the entire nine innings. The score of the game was 2 to 0 in favor of Joplin.

Frank Hahn, the southpaw pitcher of the Reds, who was unconditionally released, is best remembered from his no-run, no-hit performance against the Philadelphia Nationals. The team at that time included such stars of the game as Lajoie, Delehanty and Flick.

WHAT! ANSON PUTS BAN ON BASEBALL?

Former Idol of the Fans, Now City Clerk, Fines Employes for Attending Games.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Adrian Constantine Anson, by the grace of the plain people of Chicago, city clerk of the municipal corporation and keeper of its seal, though at one time captain of the Chicago baseball team, has issued a stern flat against attendance at local baseball games on the part of employes of his office.

"Any attache of the city clerk's department who forsakes his work to witness the American national pastime shall be fined." Such in effect is the solemn ukase recently promulgated by the former captain, to behold whose prowess at the bat thousands have played "hooky," fibbed to the boss and otherwise proven recreant to exacting duty.

And to show that he meant just exactly what he said, Clerk Anson created a sensation in the City Hall by "docking" John Mahoney $39 of his last month's pay for absenting himself to see the performances of the White Sox and the Chicago Nationals. Mr. Mahoney is an old-time "fan" and for years has been a servitor of the public in the City Recorder's office, and that he should be thus punished for his devotion to the great sport of which his chief has for years been deemed the patron is a matter of sad commiseration among his fellow employes.

Wants Catcher Wood.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 2.—Manager Stallings of the Buffalo Club is anxious to get Bobby Wood, the veteran catcher now playing with the Niles (Ohio) Protective League team. Wood quit the Detroit club when a deal to trade him to Stallings was under way. Now both Detroit and Buffalo are endeavoring to get him to return to the Bison City, as Detroit wants Kissenger, Stallings' giant pitcher.

It's the right time to buy a suit now. To see you through the rest of the hot weather in fresh, crisp attire, we've marked ridiculously low prices on some of our best suits.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 2.—Why President Dreyfuss of the Pittsburg Club arrived in the city this morning, neither that gentleman, nor President Herrman of the Reds will tell. However, that there is something about to drop, seems certain.

Mr. Dreyfuss said later in the day: "No, I am not here because a bomb-shell is expected to explode. I merely came to talk with Mr. Herrman, on a few private and personal matters. There is nothing in the story that Pat Powers of the Eastern League is to succeed President Pulliam of the National.

EXPECT PLAW TO BEAT ROSE AT PORTLAND.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 2.—Ralph Rose and the Chicago Athletic Club contingent exercised for the first time Tuesday at the Stadium, where the A. A. U. championships will be held next week. The consensus of opinion after seeing Rose work out, was that Plaw will easily defeat him. Plaw a few days ago, in practice, threw the hammer 171 feet. Rose's best effort Tuesday was 156 feet 4 inches.

By winning three out of four sets Tuesday D. L. James earned the right to challenge Vernon. James' opponent was Dr. Sheldon, who played in unusually poor form.

LAJOIE JOINS TEAM TO MANAGE FROM BENCH.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 2.—Napoleon Lajoie, manager-captain of the Cleveland Blues, will leave this afternoon to join the club at Boston. Firstbaseman Stovall, who is also on the injured list, will accompany him.

Lajoie expects to manage the team from the bench, and says he does not know when he will be able actively to participate in the game. "My ankle is not mending as fast as I expected," said the Cleveland chief, "and I do not know just when it will be strong enough to allow me to use it. I put a shoe on this morning for the first time since I received the injury."

SSS THE BEST TONIC

When the system gets debilitated and in a run-down condition it needs a tonic and there has never been one discovered that is the equal of S. S. S. It is especially adapted for a systemic remedy, because it contains no strong minerals to derange the stomach and digestion, and affect the liver and bowels. It is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks selected for their purifying and healing qualities, and possesses just the properties that are needed to restore to the body strong, robust health. When the blood becomes impure and clogged with waste matters and poisons the body does not receive sufficient nourishment and suffers from debility, weakness, sleeplessness, nervousness, loss of appetite, bad digestion and many other disagreeable symptoms of a disordered blood circulation, and if it is not corrected some form of malignant fever or other dangerous disorder will follow. S. S. S. builds up the broken down constitution, clears the blood of all poisons and impurities and makes it strong and healthy. The nerves are restored to a calm, restful state, refreshing sleep is had again, the appetite returns and the whole system is toned up by this great remedy. S. S. S. is a blood purifier and tonic and acts promptly in this run-down, depleted condition of the system. Book on the blood and medical advice furnished by our physicians, without charge.

I have used your S. S. S. and found it to be an excellent tonic to build up the general health and give tone and strength to the system. I have used other things highly recommended, but S. S. S. did me more good than everything else combined. As to its tonic properties it gives a splendid appetite, refreshing sleep, and the system undergoes a general building up under its invigorating influence.

BIGGEST WEST OF THE MISSISSIPPI.

The only St. Louis Newspaper with the Associated Press day dispatches.

Uncle Sam must find some way to quarantine grafters.

St. Louis' 1905 big business makes her World's Fair year look a little dull.

A nation may or may not succeed on big salaries. Rojestvensky's salary is $55,000, Togo's $3240.

If Senator Kinney's fight with Hawes leads him to swat the gambling influence in the Police Department he will do the public a good turn.

THE SIMON ENTANGLEMENT.

The entanglement in the Health Department, caused by Dr. Simon's fight to retain the office from which he has been dismissed by the Mayor, is particularly unfortunate at this time, when the sanitary conditions of the city should be watched with extreme care and when the special menace of yellow fever exists.

The struggle of a public officer to retain his office and salary as long as possible through legal technicalities, when his work is displeasing to the city's chief executive, cannot by any stretch of logic be credited to public spirit or loyalty to the public service. It is a personal fight, prompted by personal reasons, for which there is no compensation in public approval and little in salary. When a public officer finds that his work is condemned by his responsible chief, a true sense of honor and just regard for the public service urge him to resign, regardless of his defense, which he is always at liberty to make without damaging public interests. He saves his dignity by relieving the administration of his services.

If the city should suffer in health through the weakening of the efficiency of the Health Department by reason of the Simon case, the penalty of Mayor Wells' mistake in appointing Dr. Simon will be a heavy one.

As President Roosevelt has sent Gov. Folk the Roosevelt strenuous book, there may be an increased pressure of the Sonntagszwank.

MR. FRAY'S ELOQUENT STORY.

John D. Rockefeller's business methods are well illustrated by the experience of Spencer Fray, the friend and kinsman of Mrs. Rockefeller. Mr. Fray's business was wrecked by Mr. Rockefeller. Refusing to sell his business to Mr. Rockefeller, he says he found one morning that the price of the oil he had to buy from Rockefeller was doubled and the price of the manufactured product he had to sell was cut in two by Mr. Rockefeller. He discovered that while he paid 70 cents per barrel for shipping oil to the seaboard, Mr. Rockefeller paid only 10 cents. The result was inevitable. Mr. Rockefeller got Mr. Fray's trade without paying for it. Mr. Fray was put out of business.

A volume of briefs would not make clearer the iniquity of the system of discrimination and plunder by which Mr. Rockefeller acquired his millions than does this little story.

Christian Scientist Kyse, who gave up his pension because he thought he was no longer entitled to it, has earned for himself and his faith something more than the mere opinion of the doctors that "he was not insane." Both his mind and his morals were right. His religion gave him not only health, but a conscience.

"LOCAL COLOR."

While hunting for "local color" in the penitentiary at Carson City, Nev., Mr. Hamlin Garland was subjected to the unpleasant experience of being confined in a cell for three hours with a convicted and somewhat profane murderer for a neighbor.

Mr. Garland had intended to acquire his supply of "local color" in half an hour, but a sociable warden forgot him. Three hours is little enough time for an author in search of "local color" to spend in a penitentiary. If he really desired to know something at first hand about prison life he should be willing to spend a year in solitary confinement, or at least at hard labor.

"Local color" is one of the most entertaining of American novelist's fads and fancies. He attends a political convention and thinks he knows all about politics. He goes on an excursion to Newport and knows all about the social life of the Four Hundred; he spends an evening at a Broadway roof garden and has mastered the life of the tenderloin. He visits the Stock Exchange and is straightway equipped to saturate 376 pages of a novel with the doings of high finance. He is like the actress who spends two weeks on a Jersey farm, and by copying a sunbonnet gains all the materials for a star appearance in a bucolic melodrama.

Most American novels are flaring with "local color" applied with a whitewash brush. It is all acquired while you wait. That helps to account for the status of American fiction in which scores of novels are turned out every year by novelists whom the critics never have the time or patience to write about. But probably it is much more profitable that way. Any kind of color may be good enough for readers who know no more about the real tints than the novelist himself.

At least there is no Sonntagszwang in Panama, where the climate is so bad that all lids must be lifted in order that the workmen may be induced to stay.

SECRETARY WILSON'S BAD LOGIC.

"Resign? No, sir. It would be cowardice to resign. Aside from my personal feelings in the matter, I feel that the agricultural interests of the country demand that I shall complete the work which I have commenced," said Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, after conferring with the President.

What are the facts? The Government has been disgraced and the people betrayed by scandalous and corrupt transactions of certain employes of Secretary Wilson's department. This misconduct took place under the nose of the Secretary, who had to be informed of it by outsiders. It is to the Secretary's credit that he did not conceal the facts nor attempt to shield the offenders. No one accuses him of dishonesty.

But is he not open to the charge of incompetence? He now says that the system is bad and needs reforming and reorganizing. But why did not Mr. Wilson discover the faults of the old system before the mischief was wrought? What was he in office for but to see that the Government received honest and efficient service?

Under the circumstances there is not so much cowardice—moral cowardice—in resigning as in sticking to his post. If Secretary Wilson will honestly analyze his feelings he will probably find that his desire to stay in office is prompted rather by personal than public considerations. In view of the record, the agricultural interests of the country demand Mr. Wilson's retirement in favor of a man who is competent of his own motion to organize and operate an efficient system, which will safeguard public interests, and to discover crookedness and the possibility of crookedness without being told about them.

The barbers are greatly indebted to the medical journal which has just issued this proclamation: "Whiskers absorb odors. Whiskers catch particles of flying matter. Whiskers afford an excellent hiding place for small germs and animalculae. Whiskers shade the face and make an excellent habitat for disease germs."

FATE OF THE MEEK HUSBAND.

When little snips of men marry big, strapping women, the outcome may be happy, if the husband is a man of spirit.

But Dr. Newton of Northfield, Mass., was one of those meek men of whom it is said that they shall inherit the earth. He had an Amazonian spouse, and in his suit for divorce he testifies that she threw a cup of hot coffee in his face and then "swatted" him with the cup. He did not mind when she called him a "pup," but when she locked him out of nights he felt a trifle hurt. When, in last November, she ordered him out of the house, he went, probably for fear that he might be compelled to eat the mud pies the baby made.

We have here, possibly, a foreshadowing of the fate of the average man if the New Woman theory is permitted to sway in the home. A woman lecturer in London told her audience recently that the day was coming when man would be eliminated, because science would prove that he was unnecessary. Long before that day, the condition of the meek man, under the home sway of the Newest Woman, may become so miserable that he will submit to elimination without a murmur.

The mummy joke caused a large laugh at the summer garden, but it must be admitted that Gov Folk has been a very lively mummy. There has been a rattling of dry bones in the official sarcophagus.

A BOY'S WILL.

"A boy's will is the wind's will," sang a poet, and the will of the little boy, Dewey Troutman, whose story is told in the Sunday Post-Dispatch, seems like a wind which cannot be captured and tamed.

"Dewey is a runaway," says his mother. And she keeps him chained to the doorsill, where he can see his little comrades play but cannot join them.

The situation is an impossible one. Dewey is a mere baby, but he will grow up. And it is more than probable that the stern measures now taken to tame his restive spirit will so exaggerate his mental craving that his whole future will be spoiled. What is now nothing more than a childish tendency to wander will be fostered into a grievous mental condition. Instead of gradually becoming a normal child, with the ideas and habits usual to children, Dewey will acquire the ferocity and slyness of the chained beast.

It is a case that calls for wise and humane action from some one who has the interests of little children at heart. This child should be saved from an environment which may ruin his young life.

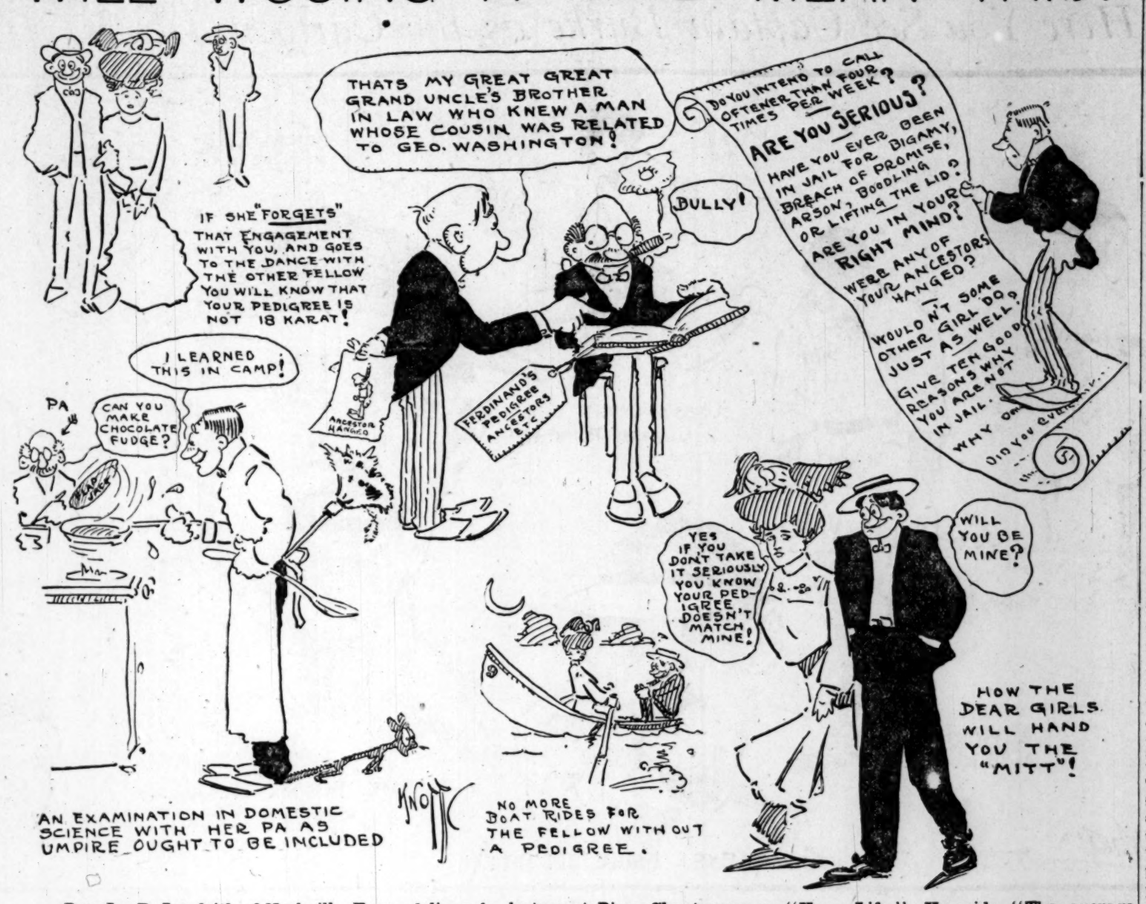

If an indictment against a Standard Oil offender is found in his own State, and the offense is committed in another, he cannot be prosecuted. If it is found in another State it is of no force, because it should have been drawn by a grand jury in the State in which he lived. Clearly, Mr. Rockefeller is supreme in the United States of America. What are we going to do about it?

Poor, downtrodden man, everywhere, will thank Mr. McCardell for telling in the Post-Dispatch how pa may make money at home in melting old iron and making cast-iron dogs, and cats while ma is busy downtown.

The most remarkable man in Kentucky is dead. He is the old distiller who, although in whisky nearly all his life, would not let any of it get into him. And he had once been a soldier, too.

Kansas is raising wheat and corn as well as thunder.

WILL WOOING A MAID MEAN THIS?

Rev. Ira D. Landrith of Nashville, Tenn., delivered a lecture at Piasa Chautauqua on "Home Life." He said: "The average father considers more the pedigree of a cow than the pedigree of future son-in-law, and the gait of a horse more than the gaits which his prospective son-in-law has been traveling."

IT STRIKES ME

THIRD street commission men do their share in matters of charity. Every morning representatives of orphans' homes, old folks' homes, rescue homes and other like institutions pass along the street and carry bushels and baskets of fruit and vegetables to their wagons cost free. The market gardeners who come in to sell to the commission men also help. The merchants are seldom imposed upon, as they decline donations to strangers. They prefer to give to "sisters" and Salvation or Volunteer Army representatives, as their distinctive garb is protection. The merchants also decline to help a "home" that is not strictly a charitable institution or one that changes its representatives often.

WHEN a man wants to read a newspaper in a street car he ought to at least recognize the presence of other persons. The holding of a paper out to see the full page and then waving his arms like a rattled prize fighter and landing about as effective blows in the effort to refold the paper certainly marks a man as a heartless, thoughtless, mannerless bore. Perhaps the man sitting beside him and receiving the jogs has his paper folded lengthwise of the page and can fold his paper within the limits of his portion of the seat, but gets no thanks for it, the bore only spreads himself further.

MISS L. HATMAKER is a very appropriate name for a milliner. It is so appropriate that it suggests fancy instead of fact, but it is a fact.

CAPT. McCULLOCH did the right thing when he caused a lunch counter to be opened on the United Railways property at the Geyer avenue sheds. After the "anti-saloon" order was announced the employes at that shed found themselves out of a place to eat a lunch. They had been lunching in saloons. While regular meal restaurants were plenty enough, they did not fill the bill, hence the "official lunch counter." By the way, there is one less saloon at that corner since the street car men withdrew their patronage, and some other proprietors are sorry they have full year licenses.

THAT the coal oil mosquito preventive might be used with effect in St. Louis and its suburbs. There are no mosquitoes in San Antonio, Tex., where the school children are taught how to use the oil.

MEN give up their seats to women on suburban trains. There were a dozen men standing in a Bluff Line coach Monday morning, and a little girl was lying at full length on a seat, with her feet on an up-ended suit case in the aisle, taking a siesta. Her mother was sitting in the next seat with a young woman. The conductor had the mother make room for the child between her and the young woman in order that two of the standing men might sit down. One sat down. Before another could do so the mother had the young woman change to the seat in front and gave the child half of her own seat.

IT would be a very good idea to establish a day nursery down town so women with babies and no nurse girls could come shopping oftener and benefit from the markdown sales, checking their baggage before making the bargain counter rush.

NEW YORK EDITORIAL OPINION

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The World praises Mr. Jerome for refusing to take the nomination for re-election from any political party, saying:

"Mr. Jerome has made a platform of a principle. That principle is the right principle to elect a public official merely because they know he is honest and untrammeled, not to suit the convenience of one party boss or another. His attitude is a challenge to all party bosses. It is a rallying cry to free voters who place public above party service.

"It is truly 'a test case' that Mr. Jerome is making. Less a test case of his personal merits than of the independence of the people of New York County. He is asking them less to elect him than to prove their power of control over their own votes. It is precisely because the politicians have learned to fear him, because he has taught them that he cannot be influenced, that he is a fitting leader in such a fight."

The Press writes bitterly against the abuse of appeals in criminal cases, citing the Hoch and Patrick cases as examples, saying:

"The right of appeal is not constitutional. It is a right conferred by statute on criminals and litigants, and it has been so grossly abused to shield the guilty and stretched to defeat just cases that, as Secretary Taft recently pointed out, and, as Justice Brewer has often demonstrated, it is one of the country's crying evils. It ought to be limited as it is in England, and if the bar will not do it the laity ought to make the reform its own special duty in Congress and in every Legislature."

The Times finds joy in the troubles of Speaker Cannon, who is searching for a means of raising revenue, or of at least making both ends meet, without revising the tariff. It says:

"No one can predict what would happen in the long run if Congress once tried the experiment of lowering tariff duties. First would come increased revenue, then increased trade, then added activity in home productions from lessening the burdens of home industry.

"The American people would be in the condition of that hopeless prisoner who chanced to think of opening his prison door and walking out into freedom. It would never do. So Mr. Cannon is going to try to cut down expenses and make increased revenue unnecessary. He will have a hard time of it. In the last five years the revenues, independent of the postoffice, have advanced about $20,000,000; the expenditures in the same time, also apart from the postoffice, have advanced nearly $100,000,000. No paring of appropriations can fill that gap."

The Sun wrote a eulogy of Benjamin Franklin and called him, in substance, a grand old "heathen." Today "A Friend" takes the Sun to task, and asks it why it did not use "gentlemen" instead. The Sun answers, saying:

"There are plenty of gentlemen in the world, but there has been one Benjamin Franklin. Speaking of what we conceive to be his habitual temper, his attitude toward his fellow men and the scheme of things, we called him the 'tranquil and genial heathen,' a characterization which was repeated and amended in our description of him as 'antique' and also 'eighteenth century philosopher.' This picture of him may be incorrect, but it is as we meant to make it.

"Franklin had a kind of homely, gnomic wisdom, prudent counsel and philosophy, tolerance, that remind us of certain heathen predecessors. And his style is plain Attic. Were it worth while, we could compare him reasonably with divers heathen, with Hesiod, minus the poetry; with Lycurgus, Solon, the Seven Sages. In his private life, at one time and another, and perhaps generally he may be said to have been one of the drove of epicuras.

"Finally, in a strict theological sense, at least according to the theologies of his time, he can hardly be described as a 'Christian.' Nowadays he is called a 'liberal Christian.' To our mind he was essentially in his habit of life and thought an antique philosopher and also a very lovable and useful 'heathen.'"

A Transposed Word Puzzle.

THREE words are illustrated by objects in the above picture. If you write them down you will at once see that you can use the letters of each word in spelling a new word. The three new words will form a command which Dr. Elephant gave Mr. Lion when the latter became ill from eating too much grass, and which advice Mr. Lion follows to this day. What are the three words?

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Our Commerce in the Orient.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Yes, if Russia, France and Germany secure control in the Orient, it will mean that our commerce with the people there—and it is worth millions—will be destroyed. England and the United States ought to take a firm stand, as their interests are identical. God bless the Japanese. GEORGE A. RITTER.

Nauvoo, Ill.

Get a House.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Please give me a little adyise as to what I should do with my children. We lived at Easton avenue, 2900, and the agent came and told me that I would have to move as I have too many children. I moved as far out as 5700. The agent came yesterday and told me the same thing.

What I would like to know, is where can I move to where they will not bother me? I have eight children, the youngest being 4 years old, and paying $18 for a lower flat. Am willing to pay $2 more only not to be bothered by such people.

People that have no children (do not know what children are), who have dogs, are making complaints. I think their dogs make more noise than all of our children. My children all go away during the day. Only the three youngest stay at home. Why should people kick so much. I can't keep moving all the time. A SUBSCRIBER.

Tainted Money.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Those who do not believe there can be "tainted money" should read Deuteronomy XXIII, verse 18.

Several years ago members of a colored M. E. church of this city got up a "basket meeting" to raise funds for the support of the church. The pastor carried along a supply of whisky and justified himself by saying: "The people will spend money for whisky, and if I don't get that money the saloon keepers will, and I am after the money."

Wasn't that money tainted?

C. HUMPHRIES.

Danger at a Crossing.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

At the point where the Iron Mountain Railway tracks cross, at Daggett and Accomac streets, I have never seen a watchman, and the safety gates appear to be unused. On account of the lumber yard and press brick works, which hide the view, a bad accident is liable to occur, unless steps are taken to make the crossing safer. Every grade crossing in the city ought to be properly guarded and the gates ought to be used, as the law requires.

CITIZEN.

Give the Irish Fair Play.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In a recent issue of the Post-Dispatch there was a letter charging Irishmen with assaulting Jews at Twenty-first and Biddle streets. If an investigation is made it will be found that these miscreants is never saw Ireland. They are genuine hoodlums, the same type as the Anglo-Saxon hooligans of London—both the product of rotten civic conditions due to liquor and low politics.

The native born Irishman was never known to persecute anyone on account of race or religion. Daniel O'Connell, the illustrious liberator, not only emancipated the Irish Catholics, but the English Jews as well, thus making it possible for one of their race, Disraeli, to become Prime Minister of England.

All the Irish want is fair play, with equal justice to all. IRISHMAN.

Trials of Old People.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

It will perhaps surprise many to learn that in all this great city there is not a "home" where elderly working women can board.

So-called Christian institutions tell them that their homes are maintained for the benefit of women not over 30, with the proviso that they are strong and capable enough to earn and promptly pay $3 per week for a small, cold-story back room, or share it with another for $2.50 each, both sleeping in one three-quarter bed, with hardly room enough to dress.

Are there not enough good people here to build a comfortable home for middleaged and elderly gentlewomen where they may pay board in proportion to their earnings? There are homes for every other class and age, and surely there is not a more deserving charity than that would be.

DORCAS.

THE SUBURBAN TRAIN

Comment En Route Anent Blindman's Buff.

"WHO was the lawyer in the Delmar track case that said we elected Folk blindfolded, in an unguarded moment?" asked the Insurance Man, looking up from his morning paper.

"That was Judge Jester H. Krum," said the Boss Printer, lighting one of the Brakeman's Punkatellos. "Why do you ask?"

"O, nothing. I was just reminded of it here by reading that the yellow fever mosquito thrives in hot air."

The train tore down the broad aisle in the standing corn, and the green stalks bent over and strained their roasting ears to hear who the Boss Printer was roasting.

"I see a good many of the Moros who were here at the Fair have been shot by our soldiers for insurrection since they went home," said the Insurance Man.

"Those are the fellows that hung around the Pennsylvania Building asking about that big bell with the crack in it," said the Boss Printer. "I suppose they've gone home and told about it, and things have naturally grown pretty warm over there. I always felt that even if we did thoroughly subjugate the rest of the Filipinos, we could never hope to make it up with the Moros. I studied them a good deal when they were at the Fair. They are wholly without the sense of harmony. You could easily tell that listening to their music. It sounded like a Robyn love ballad played backward on a lawn mower. The moment I heard that music I said: 'Here's a row.' The fact of the matter is that we never had anything to offer the Moros, and we never can hope to hold them. Take the Sultan of Sulu, for instance. What did we do to him? We went there and found him enjoying a perfect solution of the servant problem. He had 10,000 slaves and 500 wives. We repudiated it. I understand the Sultan is living now on a small pension, with one wife and no girl. That has about as much chance of lasting as you have of making a living writing life insurance for aeronauts."

"We offer the Moros civilization," suggested the Insurance Man.

"That's silly," said the Boss Printer. "I might as well offer Rockefeller money. The Moros were civilized before Columbus discovered us. To point out one unanswerable proof of that, they were using brass cannon when we were twanging along with bows and arrows. Arms are the standard by which civilization is measured. Roosevelt says so."

The train pulled in under the smoke blanket and the Insurance Man laid his paper aside and watched the game of cards.

"Getting back to the previous question, I wonder what Judge Krum meant when he said we elected Folk blindfolded, in an unguarded moment?" he asked.

"He's kicking because the Delmar gamblers wanted to play blind man's buff with the Governor, and Folk wouldn't be it," said the Boss Printer.

"St. Louis!" shouted the Brakeman.

Sweethearts and Wives

By IVAN WHIN.

"MAKE it short," said the Worthy High Chamberlain. There are ten speeches on the list and it'll be 9 o'clock before we finish dinner and get to the speeches. Then there's Francis, who speaks on 'Our City's Future,' and O'Neill Ryan on 'Sweethearts and Wives.' We can limit our own folks, but we've got to give Francis and Ryan their heads. If we're not careful it'll be past midnight before we get through."

Walter Ritchey promised that his speech on "Our Younger Members" would be brief. He promised graciously, but in his heart there was rebellion. He had been a member of the Inner Temple, a fraternal order, for just one year and during that time had learned to think on his feet. Audiences no longer daunted him; he faced the composite eye of congregated persons with a calm heart and cool brain. He felt that he possessed the gift of eloquence, and the sound of his own voice was pleasant to his ears.

The bug of speechmaking had inoculated him with the virus of vanity.

His eye was set on the office of Worthy Orator and already friends were talking of proposing him for election in December.

In accepting the theme, "Our Younger Members," he hoped to prove his right to that office and gain friends who would support his pretensions.

The speech as he framed it devoted three minutes to a laudation of the order, five to specific instances of the good accomplished in behalf of members who entered as youths and had grown old, five minutes to the necessity for youth to choose the right pathway, the right association—with instances of world-famous men who, in their youth, fixed upon a career and a plan to attain its prize—and a conclusion of eloquent adjuration to young men in general. Total, 20 minutes.

Are you yawning? Well, I confess the speech would have proven a bore, as are most speeches.

The Worthy High Chamberlain demanded condensation to five minutes of all this outlined material.

Ritchey spent three evenings boiling down his thought. Each section had phrases he could not give up and each pet phrase needed sentences that would connect it with the others.

He delivered his speech to the clock in his room and finished in eight minutes. Then he did some more pruning, sacrificing eloquence with many a pang, and, facing his mirror, which reflected the clock, he repeated the emasculated oration.

It sounded flat, unconvincing, illogical, windy. But there was no use worrying about it now. The worthy High Chamberlain was a real power in the lodge, not a mere figurehead, and what he ordered must be done.

On the night of the banquet the members of the lodge gathered in their chamber in the Odeon, donned regalia and marched glittering and resplendent to the Jefferson, where their wives and other female attachments awaited them.

There was a brief drill on the broad asphalted street and a quick jingling march into the banquet room. The ladies were at the table and the hotel guests crowded the doors to catch a glimpse of the interior splendor.

Distinguished guests, the lodge officers and speakers, were seated at a semi-circular table on one side of the room and the others occupied tables radiating like wheel spokes from this hub.

As Walter Ritchey glanced about the room he held his head high and tasted dreamily of the joy to come when every eye should be centered on him and every ear attentive to his words. He swore that every hand should tingle in applause if there were any power in the spoken word to win it.

A girl's bright face was smiling and the girl's hand was waving a napkin in his direction. She was far down one of the spokes and leaning far back in her tilted chair to see and be seen.

Was she smiling and waving at him? He looked about hurriedly and saw no one interested in her. Surely, then, she meant her signals for him. But he did not recognize her. However, in the exuberance of the moment he yielded and waved his napkin at her.

Evidently she meant her favor for him. Who could she be? He asked Mrs. Parker, wife of the Junior High Chamberlain, who sat on his left, and she, scrutinizing the girl through a tortoise-shell lorgnette, informed him that it was Mattie Feuerbach.

"Mattie?" He could hardly believe it. A slip of a girl, a child grown suddenly to womanhood. True, he had not seen her for four years—well, that would account for the great transformation. She had been "sweetheart" to him in the old days when they were chums. The four years difference in their ages gave him then the privilege to pet her; but she had overtaken him and—would he dare?

He left his place and hurried down the spoke. She rose at his approach.

"Walter, you dear old thing," she said, "you haven't changed a line."

"Where's my little sweetheart?" he asked. "Surely this great, beautiful young lady"—

"Just the same, Sweetheart," she said and in spite of her laughter her eyes were almost weeping.

He pressed her hand and promising to return after his speech went back with beating heart to his place.

It seemed to Walter that the courses flew in and flew out. He ate scarcely anything and drank not at all. Had it been a dinner of snails and grass he would have enjoyed it quite as much.

He turned in his seat many times to wave recklessly to Mattie and incurred Mrs. Parker's high displeasure by inattention to her critical remarks on the menu.

Suddenly there was coffee before him and the Worthy High Chamberlain had risen to call for the first speech.

Ritchey was in a nervous tremor. He could not remember the order of speeches nor a word of his own oration. A sudden fear of his audience was on him—rather it was a fear that he would not acquit himself grandly in the presence of Mattie Feuerbach.

Parker was first on the list. "Why We Are Here," a tiresome series of platitudes concerning the beauty of friendship. Wright, the orator of the lodge, followed, speaking on "The Future of Our Order," with many a classic allusion not pertinent to his subject, much rolling of drums, waving of flags and fireworks that aroused applause, if it did not sound true and convincing.

"Our Older Members," announced the Worthy High Chamberlain, paying a heavy compliment to Fred Cook, whose white beard spread below the youngest heart in the room.

Next on the list was Ritchey and that young man fought manfully to recall the speech he had so toilsomely concocted and condensed.

While Cook talked in his easy, jocular fashion arousing laughter with every sentence, the Worthy High Chamberlain beckoned Ritchey to him.

"Say, Walter," he whispered, "Francis and Ryan haven't come. Ryan's sick. Can't you drop your subject and take his. We've had enough of the order. Its getting late and the folks look tired. Here's a chance to spread yourself. Take as much time as you need and hand the women a bunch of taffy."

Ritchey's legs bent under him. What could he do on the spur of such a moment with "Sweethearts and Wives." While he hesitated Cook concluded and sat down. Dishes clattered and hands clapped and the noise of laughter rose above all other sounds.

"My friend," said the W. H. C., "it is now my pleasure to give you the toast. 'Sweethearts and Wives'"—loud and continuous applause and great flow of wit from the volunteer humorists—"and call upon our gifted and eloquent young brother, Walter Ritchey, to respond. He is so young that he canhot speak of wives from experience, but I am sure you will agree that his grace of person and beauty of feature offer convincing proof that he has knowledge of sweethearts."

Banqueters love to laugh, and the Inner Circlers were no exception to the rule.

Walter faced a storm of laughing applause, his face white and stern, his mind a blank, his heart pounding thunderously.

"Brothers," he said, and paused an age as it seemed to him; "sisters," and wondered what he should say next; "wives," now he was in for it and could not turn back, "and dear ones who have taught us the meaning of love, we have heard much of the glories of our order—its past, present and future greatness—but as we listened to the eloquent words of the orators we felt that they failed to mention the greatest inspiration of true fraternity," etc., etc.

He had stumbled into the stride of his speech, had sounded his note, prepared his way to the gush of compliment which he was expected to lavish on the fair ones who were present. It was by fixing his eyes upon the naughty nymph toying with a bunch of grapes on the far wall of the banquet hall that he was able to gain this point in his speech. Now, conscious that he would be equal to the occasion, he allowed his gaze to wander from the nude, painted woman until he centered on Mattie Feuerbach.

"into every man's life there comes one woman worthy of that dearest of all names," he said to Mattie's eyes. "To call her sweetheart is to beckon her into your life, to make her—if she will—the keeper of your purse, your heart, your home. The arms of unwed youth are wide and his throat is hoarse with the call for his mate. 'Sweetheart,' he cries, 'my arms are weary waiting to clasp you; my home yearns to enshrine my wife.'"

He painted the one desired as coy as alluring in the first stages of the courtship, and in passionately eloquent words told of her supreme surrender.

After that he exulted her as the goddess by the fireside, the sun, inspiration and comfort of the lover who even at his work and in the duties of the Inner Temple kept the thought of her in his mind as a charm against failure and wrongdoing.

He was not conscious of concluding. The fever of his words exalted him and the spontaneous roar of applause startled him.

The speeches ended there and dozens crowded around to congratulate him.

"You're the next orator," shouted Wright over the heads of the throng. "You've got me skinned a block."

Ritchey caught sight of Mattie in the press and shouldered his way to her.

"Walter, Walter," she said, holding his hand with one of her own and patting it softly, "I was so scared when you began and then all of a sudden I knew that there was no need to fear for you. You can just do anything."

"Including—" he said looking down on her with triumphant eyes.

"Including?" she repeated puzzled.

"Marrying you," he whispered.

"O yes," she whispered swaying toward him. "That was settled long ago."

When the election was held in December the coveted place was given Walter Ritchey and he was then entitled to speak on both divisions of his banquet subject for he had a wife.

LINGUISTS IN DEMAND

By Annette E. Crocker.

THE use of the foreign language for commercial purposes is a matter of great and increasing importance, as the growth of foreign trade from the United States promises a large, new field for them. The services of a young man or woman commanding one or more of these languages are of distinct value in an exporting house. The young woman may soon become a well-paid foreign correspondent, while the young man soon rises to the management of the foreign department, and perhaps is sent to foreign countries as a trusted salesman or agent. Neither is this latter field closed to women, for there is one now traveling in Mexico for a St. Louis house who sells more inks and adhesives than any of the men they have on the road, and she began with only a limited knowledge of Spanish.

In the present state of foreign trade from Chicago the Spanish is the leading language, coming as it does with the trade from Cuba, Porto Rico and the West Indes, the Philippines, the South American countries and Mexico, and also from Spain. After the Spanish-American war there was a sharp interest in commercial Spanish, and this has resulted in the establishment of classes for instruction in that language for business purposes, both under private auspices and in the public schools.

The almost universal knowledge of French makes it the next available tongue for business correspondence. Just as French so frequently is the language of diplomacy, so it lends itself to the transaction of international business.

Closely ranking these languages in their order come German, Italian and Portuguese; and after these, as the leading foreign language in business correspondence, come the Russian, Swedish and Norwegian. Dutch and Danish, Finnish, Polish, Bohemian, Hungarian, modern Greek, etc.; Japanese and Chinese occasionally claim attention in one way or another, and once there was handed to me a letter in Cingalese. This had to be given up as untranslatable, and was respectfully referred to the British Consul, but in every other case I have always been able to find some one to take care of business matters in languages that I do not know personally.

Changed His Mind.

James Barton Adams, the Denver poet and humorist who, with his wife, stopped over in Houston a few days last week, said that coming down from Denver he got in conversation with a Texas cattleman who sang the praises of grand old Texas world without end.

"You are not of the same opinion as regards Texas as Gen. Phil Sheridan was?" observed Adams.

"What opinion was that?" queried the cattleman.

"Why, he said that if he owned a farm in Texas and one in hades he'd sell the one in Texas, as he would rather live in hades."

"No, I ain't of that opinion?" observed the cattleman, thoughtfully, "and I'll bet Sheridan has changed his mind by this time."—Houston (Tex.) Post.

KILL ONE; WOUND 40 AT SAN JUAN

Rioters Take and Hold Possession of Porto Rico Capital for Two Hours.

POLICE WERE POWERLESS

Nearly All Lights in City Broken—Reinforcements for Officers Expected Today.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Aug. 2.—As an outcome of the longshoremen's strike for an increase of wages of 25 cents an hour, which has been in progress for a month, the greater portion of San Juan was under control of a mob between 7 and 9 o'clock last night.

The mob, in which there were about a thousand armed persons, dug up paving blocks and stones and with these and other missiles rushed through the streets fighting the police, who were armed with rifles and fired scores of shots, but mostly in the air.

One person was killed and there are 40 injured in the hospitals, three or four of whom may die.

At 8 o'clock while the main police force was engaged with the rioters, another mob, mainly composed of young men and boys, threw stones at the arc lights in the main streets, with the result that nearly the entire city was in total darkness all night.

At 9 o'clock the mob sought refuge in a disreputable district in which there were no police. This district, however, was surrounded by the police, and mounted squads patrolled the city for the remainder of the night.

At midnight the police, who numbered only 100, had the situation under control. Reinforcements are expected today.

Col. T. H. Hamill, who served in the Spanish-American war in Porto Rico and who is now Chief of Police at San Juan, is due to arrive at San Juan today on the steamer Coamo. He has quelled several riots in Porto Rico in the last half-dozen years. The present strike began at the time of his departure from the island.

SALOON KEEPERS WARNED.

Must Operate Saloons and Poolrooms Separately.

Proprietors of 70 saloons in St. Louis were warned Wednesday by J. E. Hartman, in charge of the Excise Commissioner's office during the absence of Excise Commissioner Mulvihill that they must remove all connection between poolrooms and their saloons.

All those summoned owned saloons in which there were pool tables or were adjoining poolrooms with a connecting door. They were told that this is in violation of the Missouri statutes, and that if they desired to continue in the saloon business the saloons and the poolrooms must be run entirely separate.

Those cited to appear contended that such a ruling on the part of the Excise Commissioner would cause them much inconvenience, as, in many cases, the connection between the poolroom and the saloon was through a hallway or another room, and that to close the connection entirely would require alterations in the buildings in some instances. They were told that the Excise Commissioner had no choice in the matter, and that the changes must be made, or the saloon licenses would be revoked.

GRAVE STONES BELATED.

Memory of Mexican War Veterans at Last Honored.

Four headstones have been set up by the United States Government in the City Cemetery, marking the resting places of soldiers of the Mexican war. The soldiers are John Bryant, George Fletcher, Capt. J. W. Baker and Lieut. R. Ferguson.

After all of these years, pressure was brought upon the Government to mark the resting places of these heroes of the Mexican war with headstones, and Tuesday they were placed. The bodies, according to old residents, were brought back from the battlefield of Buena Vista, and were, at the time of their arrival in Alton, laid in the City Cemetery with great pomp and ceremony.

2000 TELEGRAPH OPERATORS STRIKE

Business Reported Completely Tied Up on Great Northern and Northwestern Roads.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 2.—The strike of the telegraph operators of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern Railway systems today settled into what promises to be a long drawn out contest between two of the largest railroads of the West and a combination of employes who claim to have the power to tie up the money-making end of these two roads so that the companies will be willing to grant their demands.

President Perham and his assistants began today with an attempt to close up all the loose ends of the strike, which was ordered last night to counteract the lockout ordered by the railroads' officials yesterday.

At strike headquarters telegrams were arriving by the score from every point along the two systems from the loyal unionists, stating that every telegraph operator to a man had gone out and that a complete tie-up was effected.

Said Mr. Perham today: "I ordered this strike after we had tried all other ways of settling our grievances against the railroads and after they had locked out our men because they would not sign impossible agreements.

"If Mr. J. J. Hill will talk business and meet my proposition fairly we will settle. We have now 950 men out on the Great Northern road and 1100 on the Northern Pacific."

BURRO RIDER BREAKS ARM.

Wasp Stings Animal and Boy Is Injured.

Robert E. Lee Jr., son of Robert E. Lee, editor of the Wholesale Grocer, is at the Piasa Chautauqua Hotel with a compound fracture of his left arm, the result of being thrown and trampled upon by a burro at Chautauqua Tuesday.

The boy was riding one of the burros when a wasp stung the animal, causing it to jump. The boy fell to the ground and the burro stepped on him. He was taken to the hotel, where Mrs. Lee and her children have been spending several days, and a doctor was summoned from Grafteon, who set the arm.

Two or three days ago the boy fell from a trapeze in the Hall of Philosophy and his right arm was thought to have been broken, but it was only severely wrenched.

NOT ENOUGH RIVER LIGHTS.

Peoria Mayor Told Regulations Must Be Observed.

PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 2.—The United States lighthouse boat Lilly is anchored at this port, with United States Lighthouse Inspector Capt. W. B. Caperton on board.

Capt. Caperton reports gross violations of the United States lighthouse regulations for inland waters on the Illinois River, and has served notice on the Mayor that the rules as to lights on the bridges over the Illinois at this point must be observed.

The lights have been insufficient in number and improperly placed, thereby rendering navigation dangerous.

COLLISIONS AT SEA.

Minneapolis Strikes Fishing Smack and Sunken Wreck.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Two collisions at sea, one of which snapped a propeller blade, were reported by the steamship Minneapolis today from London.

The Minneapolis met another liner, a tramp ship, and a fishing smack Saturday, July 22, in the English Channel. Capt. Gates' only choice was which of the other ships to run down. He chose the fishing smack and struck this boat a glancing blow, which carried away parts of her rigging.

Two days later Capt. Gates believes the Minneapolis ran over a fragment of a submarined wreck. The steamer shivered and one blade of the propeller snapped off. Passengers were awakened and ran on deck as the steamer came to a stop.

LID ON LEMONADE.

Joplin Drug Stores Complained of by Saloon Men.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JOPLIN, Mo., Aug. 2.—Members of the saloonkeepers' association of Joplin have gone to Mayor Lyon with the complaint that since the lid has been on in Joplin the drug stores have been selling intoxicating drinks from soda fountains.

The saloonkeepers claim that the elite of the city have been in the habit of visiting certain drug stores where a wink meant a "stick" in the lemonade.

The charge is made that this violation of the law goes merrily on Sundays as well as week days, and the saloonkeepers ask for fair play.

Jay Gillett, a prominent druggist, has been charged with selling intoxicating liquor on Sunday. His case is to be tried in police court.

INQUEST FOR WATCHMAN.

Death of Man Killed While Protecting Girls Probed.

An inquest was begun Wednesday into the death of Clark Walton, who, it is alleged, was shot in the back by K. B. Brown, a barber, while near Morische's Grove, on the Olive street road, in St. Louis County, at 2 o'clock Monday morning. Walton died Tuesday evening at the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium.

A warrant charging assault with intent to kill was issued against Brown Monday by Justice I. W. Campbell, but it is now probable that a charge of murder will be placed against the prisoner.

The shooting occurred over an alleged insult to two girls who were leaving the grove. Walton was the private watchman at the Columbia Hotel, and undertook to assist the girls when they were accosted by Brown and a companion.

Watch Machine Inventor Dead.

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—Duane Herbert Church, whose invention of about 150 machines has revolutionized the manufacture of watches in America during the last 20 years, died yesterday from heart failure at his home in West Newton. Since 1882 he had been employed in the factory of a watch company at Waltham.

Too High a Price.

From Harper's Weekly.

A farm laborer who was getting married found that he had not enough money with which to pay the minister's fee. He promised, however, to pay him in potatoes when they were ready for digging up. The minister waited for some time, but no potatoes were forthcoming; so he called upon the man and inquired the reason.

"Well, to tell you the truth, guvner," was the reply, "I'd like to give you the potatoes, but she ain't worth it."

NUMEROUS RUBEYS CONFUSE EDITOR

Laugh Caused by Mistake in Crediting Letter to Gov. Folk.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY Mo., Aug. 2.—Gov. Folk and pretty much everybody about the capital are laughing today over the mistake of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat in confounding Webb M. Rubey, the venerable banker and politician of Macon County, with Thomas L. Rubey of Lebanon, Laclede County, also a banker and a Democratic politician of considerable note.

The mistake is in an editorial, a column in length, and it is brought out by a letter of Webb M. Rubey to Gov. Folk, suggesting to him that if the St. Louis police and the Missouri National Guard are inadequate to suppress the lawlessness in St. Louis County the regular army be called in to do the work.

The Globe-Democrat attributes the letter to Thomas M. Rubey, who was the nominee for lieutenant-governor on the Democratic State ticket last year, and facetiously congratulates the State that the defeat of Rubey at the polls took away any danger of the regular army being called on in the event that Gov. Folk should happen to be out of the State a day or two.

Thomas L. Rubey, who did not write the letter which was written by his venerable kinsman, Webb M. Rubey, is here today as a witness in the Farris case. He enjoyed a hearty laugh this morning when his attention was called to the editorial and remarked that he would have to write his cousin, Webb, to go and get a reputation before he wrote any more suggestions to the Governor.

The Macon Rubey has been a member of the Legislature half a dozen times from his county and has been one of the most prominent men in Northeast Missouri for 40 years.

MITCHELL SCORES MINERS

Union's President Recounts Benefits of Organization and Excoriates Men for Leaving.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 2.—In an address to several thousand mine workers at Nanticoke, President John Mitchell of the Coal Miners' Union, defined the limits to which he hopes to raise the union and for which he will strive continuously, despite concessions which operators may grant when the present agreement expires. He said:

"If you had a guarantee that present wages and conditions would continue through life, men might possibly be excused for deserting the union. But there is no guarantee that they will continue after March 31, 1906. If I had a guarantee that they would be continued I would not be satisfied. I would still agitate for wages, shorter hours, and improved conditions. I would keep at it until mine workers are as highly paid as other crafts having the same hazards and risks.

"I am not going to work for nonunion men any longer. If you want me and my colleagues to work for you you must join the union. During the past five years wages in this region have been advanced 27 per cent, powder was reduced, semi-monthly pay, higher wages and shorter hours is the fruit of the union. The raise in wages amounts to over a hundred dollars per year for each man, and it greatly surprises me to find that men receiving such benefits still refuse to pay $6 a year into the union."

BODY OF UNKNOWN FOUND.

Taken From River and Held for Identification.

The body of an unidentified man, in whose pockets were a Catholic prayer book, two Catholic medals and a rosary, was taken from the Mississippi at the foot of Dover street by two fishermen at 8 a. m. Wednesday. It is now at the Morgue.

The body does not agree with the description of any of the men reported missing within the past 10 days. Death evidently resulted from drowning four or five days ago. The man was 50 years old, 5 feet 6 inches, weighed 150 pounds, had dark sandy hair, beard and mustache and wore a dark coat, vest and trousers, white cotton shirt and gaiter shoes. The fishermen who found the body were William Sautia and James Smith.

BEAM-KNIGHTS NUPTIALS.

St. Louis Girl Wedded to Californian at Parents' Home.

Miss Flora Beam, daughter of City Recorder V. B. Beam of California, Mo., and T. D. Knights of Santa Anna, Cal., were married Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Lucille Ehrhardt, the little niece of the bride, was her only attendant. Mr. and Mrs. Knight departed Monday evening for a tour through the West. They will visit Denver, Salt Lake City, Portland and San Francisco before going to Santa Anna, where they will reside.

The bride and her sisters have been residents of St. Louis for several years. Mr. Knights is a Canadian by birth.

GOES TO GET DAUGHTER.

Mother of Girl Held by Arkansas Man Leaves St. Louis.

Mrs. Clara Hamblin left St. Louis Wednesday for Barfield, Mississippi County, Arkansas, to unravel the mystery concerning her daughter, Miss Marian Emmons, who has written that she was prevented from returning home by a 70-year-old man who had engaged her as an assistant housekeeper.

As was told in Tuesday's Post-Dispatch, Mrs. Hamblin was informed that her daughter had been released; later the police were informed that she was in the custody of the Sheriff of Mississippi County.

Nothing has been heard directly from the young woman concerning her release.

LAND SOLD FOR $203,333,32.

Washington Avenue Property Bought by Majestic Co.

Real estate men commented Wednesday on the big sale of Washington avenue property, involving a consideration of $203,333.32, which was completed Tuesday.

The ground is on the south side of the avenue, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets. It was purchased recently from the Farrar estate and is now conveyed from W. Dulaney Reese to the Majestic Realty Co. The company is capitalized at $500,000. L. G. McNair and Fletcher R. Harris each hold 200 shares and L. W. Day 100 shares.

Chauffeur Attacked by Mob.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—A 6-year-old girl was run down and probably fatally hurt last night in Brooklyn by a large automobile bus.

A mob attacked the chauffeur, Nils Brolin, who was saved from serious injury by a policeman.

STOCKS ARE FIRM ON LOCAL EXCHANGE

Investors Continued to Buy Dividend Paying Securities at Good Prices.

BONDS SEEM ATTRACTIVE

Traction Securities but Little Changed, With Sales of Moderate Volume.

Today's market on the St. Louis Stock Exchange was a repetition of yesterday's dealings. There was a continuation of the investment which was apparent at the previous session, and prices held firm on the stocks and bonds which were wanted. Investors seemed to be back of the firmness, and bidding showed that there were more purchasers than sellers at present prices.

Bonds, especially the old underlying traction issues, were wanted, and some which have been on the dead list received active support from the brokers.

National Bank of Commerce, as yesterday, was the active bank issue, the last sales being at the top price of the day, $341.

IRREGULAR PRICES AT CLOSE OF MARKET

Rally in Stocks, Which Followed a Weak Opening, Was Wiped Out Later.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug 2.—With London a shade higher this morning the prices here showed a range of lower figures, the general decline being but fractional and without any special features. The dealings at the beginning of the session were only of moderate volume and the amount of commission business was not larger than for the past few days.

Copper still has a large line of bull tips afloat and has the support of some of the active men in the manipulative and speculative market.

Early news of a character to affect the market was scarce and the absence of the banking interests from the market was apparent. The late advance has been rapid and steady and it is said that heavy interests are not favoring any heavy advances at the present time, feeling that the market should thoroughly digest the large lines taken on recently before going further.

Commission houses, for a time following the early dealings, turned sellers, and that had a temporary depressing effect on values. The offerings were readily absorbed, however, and an undercurrent of strength developed, which made later quotations show a recovery of nearly all of the former losses.

Smelter continued active and strong with support, which had the appearance of coming from insiders, who have all along been predicting much higher figures for the stock.

The general gross railroad earnings are showing up well, but in many instances increased operating expenses have cut considerable inroad into the net gains.

It was given out today that the bond issue of the American Steel Foundries Company had been underwritten at a satisfactory price, and yesterday's rise in the stock is supposed to have been the result of this financial transaction.

Yellow fever in New Orleans has become a factor in the market and the curtailment of trade in the South as a result of this has been a topic which had an effect on southern rails. Reports that there were few prospects of a peace settlement of the Russian troubles were overlooked in the general upward movement.

Bonds throughout the morning held steady and prices showed that an active investment demand was resulting from the early July disbursements.

Smelting touched a record price at 126 and the preferred rose 1¼. Lackawanna extended its record price by nearly 5 points to 430. The United States Reduction stocks became conspicuous, the common rising 2¾ and the preferred 3⅜. Prices generally were inclined to harden, but very sluggishly. Baltimore & Ohio recovered more than a point to 115 and Pittsburg Coal rallied 1 and the preferred 2. General Electric declined 1¼.

In the last hour prices dropped off in most instances and there was a continued sluggish movement to the trading which made the general situation hard to analyze. The revival of gossip concerning an alliance between Illinois Central and Union Pacific did not serve to strengthen htese stocks and on a few trades Illinois Central dropped off from previous quotations, even considering the coming dividend.

London was a factor in the market today and the foreigners were sellers to a considerable extent. The approaching holidays in London made the traders there inclined to close out their holdings without waiting until the last day. Foreign consols were lower, but the situation in the money market here showed a healthy condition as regards the price of money. Subtreasury operations, however, show a loss from the banks aggregating $3,000,000 and a good bank statement is not predicted for Saturday.

The close was sluggish and was in line with the irregularity of the last hour of trading. Most of the gains which followed the early weakness were wiped out in the late dealings and the close, while irregular, showed an average loss for the day.

CUR CAUSES STREET PANIC

Suspected of Having Rabies, It Greatly Frightens Crowd of 200.

A mad dog frightened 200 persons in the neighborhood of Tenth street and Park avenue Wednesday morning for 30 minutes. Women ran into the streets for their children and pedestrians ran into business places to get out of the canine's way.

Officer Herman Eellers of the Soulard Street Police Station pursued the dog and shot at it several times, but had to cease shooting for fear of injuring persons in the streets.

The dog stopped before the grocery store of Bernard Bulte, 1020 Park, in which were a number of customers. The grocer barricaded the door before the dog could enter, and it chewed upon the bread box outside.

John Sessig brought a baseball bat, with which the officer killed the dog. It was a yellow cur.

SIX-FOOT LAD WEEPS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—On complaint of his father, Alfred Price, a 15-year-old boy, more than 6 feet tall and of manly proportions, has been arrested. The father declared that when he remonstrated with the lad the boy demolished everything in the dining room, threatened to fire the house and declared that if a policeman attempted to stop him he would kill him.

Alfred Sr., dodging the flying glassware and china, ran into the street and called a patrolman.

The policeman found the youth hidden under a bed in his father's room, crying as if his heart would break. Alfred's feelings were once more lacerated when he was turned over to the Children's Society.

GOOD SAMARITANS ROBBED.

Permit Man to Ride and Watches Are Stolen.

Watches valued at $250, belonging to Burt Sharp and Charles Hawkins, cattlemen from Wetumka, Io., were stolen from the caboose where they slept on the way to St. Louis.

With the watches went a man who asked the stockmen to let him ride the last few miles into St. Louis. They sent him ahead to look after two cars of cattle and he is thought to have returned and taken the timepieces while his benefactors were asleep. The police have a description of both watches and the man.

An Eye to the Future.

BIG FIRE IN KANSAS CITY.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 2.—Fire last night destroyed the mill, warehouses and elevator of the Kansas City Milling Co. The loss is $100,000.

The fire started in the boiler rooms of the mill, and the cause is unknown. The firemen battled with the flames for hours before they got them under control.

Giant Maine Willow.

From the Banger (Me.) News.

The biggest willow in the State is at Norridgewock. It measures 23 feet in circumference at the base and has a ponderous spreading top. Its largest diameter is a little more than eight feet. The age of the tree is about 100 years. The tradition is that a man, traveling from New Hampshire on horseback stopped to give his horse water there and stuck his whip, which was a small willow twig, in the ground and forgot to take it.

Considerate Husband.

From the Chicago News.

"George, dear," said the bride of three short months, as the freight payer of the combine was about to start for his office, "I wish you would let me have a little pin money I want to go shopping today."

"Never mind, Nellie," replied the other half of the sketch. "It's going to be an awful hot day and you had better not venture downtown. So instead of giving you the money I'll bring home half a dozen papers of pins tonight."

SLIGHT GAIN FOR DAY IN WHEAT

Market Steady With Few Disturbing Influences—All Corn Options Are Higher.

There was little doing in the grain market Wednesday in the way of business, news or price range, except a smart advance in corn, following cables. The dispute as to black rust and the Russian situation waxes merry with the present odds against disaster at either end of the line. Advices from the Northwest that have proved reliable this year, tell local grain men there is but slight damage. The speculators are watching the yellow fever situation for the next price mover. The weather map and forecast were favorable. Wheat cables were lower on Tuesday's American markets. Corn cables were higher on South American movements.

Sept. wheat opened ⅛c down at 80 7-8c to 81c, and ranged from 81½c to 80½c, closing at 81¼@81⅜c, a gain for the day of ¼c. Dec. opened ⅛@¼c up at 83¼c, ranged from 83½c to 82⅝@82¾c, and at 83⅝c bid, a net gain of ⅜@½c.

Sept. corn closed 1⅛@¼c up at 50⅝c bid, a trade being made at that mark. Dec. closed ⅜c up at 43c sellers. May closed at 83⅝c bid, a net gain of ⅜@¼c.

Sept. corn closed at 1⅛@1¼c up at 50⅝c

BOTH MOTORMAN AND DRIVER FINED

Latter Blockades Tracks and Says Mean Things and Former Commits Assault.

Three fines were assessed against two men by Judge Tracy in the City Hall Police Court Wednesday for an incident that extended over three blocks on Laclede avenue Tuesday.

Sam Moskowitz was driving a coal wagon west on the tracks and when Motorman Ed McKinzie sounded his gong as a warning for Moskowitz to vacate the tracks, he was unable to do so promptly because of a broken shaft. The evidence showed that sharp words were spoken by both the driver and the motorman, and when Grand avenue was finally reached and Moskowitz turned out, his parting shot was such that McKinzie left the platform with his controller and assaulted the driver.

Judge Tracy said that it was natural that McKinzie resented the speech, but he should not have taken the law in his own hands. He was fined $5. Moskowitz was fined $10 for blockading the tracks and $5 for disturbing the motorman's peace.

Two Buggies Turned Over.

Olis Bryant, an agent for the Brown Shoe Co. of 3017A Newstead avenue, was thrown from a buggy Tuesday afternoon at Jefferson and Scott avenues when the vehicle collided with another buggy occupied by M. C. Gibson of 2710 Franklin avenue. Both buggies were turned over and the occupants thrown out and bruised.

THREE SANDY HOOK HOUSEBOATS SINK

Craft Proves Unseaworthy When It Is Pulled From Location of Many Years.

AT BOTTOM OF SLOUGH

Woman Who Complains About Violations of Others Is Biggest Violator of All.

The unseaworthiness of the houseboats which are being pulled from Sandy Hook by Deputy Sheriffs at the instance of the Wiggins Ferry Co., has been proved and verified. Three boats belonging to J. A. Neely, who was arrested last Friday for resisting, are at the bottom of the slough at the north end of the "hook."

One was pulled off Tuesday evening and was found Wednesday morning resting on the bottom in four feet of water. Two others which were pulled off Wednesday morning also filled and sank, with all their contents.

After all the houseboats have been dragged into the slough, those that sink as well as those that remain afloat are to be drawn 500 feet across an island between the slough and the river.

The deputies arrived at 9:30 Wednesday morning under the command of Chief Deputy Cahsell. While the steamboat McClellen was away after Sheriff Thompson the deputies organized an impromptu program of field sports. They had running, jumping and rock-putting contests among themselves to the great delectation of the houseboat dwellers. Brockman of East St. Louis won most of the honors, with Philpot of Belleville second.

Mrs. Schwartz, whose boat was pulled off Tuesday, came up from the lower end of the "hook" and complained that the others whose boats had been pulled off had towed their boats back to shore. An investigation showed that Mrs. Schwartz had pushed her boathouse in closer than any of the rest and it was again hauled 50 feet from shore, where she tied up to a stake.

The McClellen was equipped with 1500 feet of 2-inch rope. Neely's remaining two boats were pulled off without opposition from Mrs. Neely.

The houseboat folk who have been evicted cruised about the steamboat in their skiffs, taking a lively interest in the proceedings and fervidly hoping for the deputies to fall in the river.

When George Merrill, the mate of the McClellen, went on shore to boss his men and slipped and fell into the river, and Deputies Cashell and Scheer had to wade in and pull him out, the Hookites got almost enough satisfaction out of it to compensate them for their eviction.

There is one more Neely boat to be pulled into the water. After that the force is to move on Charles Schneider's domicile. Schneider has been maintaining a threatening attitude and trouble is expected.

A man named Hudson, whose boat is next to Schneider's, declares that half of his house is on the Orthwein property and defies the evictors to move that half. He concedes their right to move the half that is on the Wiggins property. Sheriff Thompson says he will hitch to the half that is on the Wiggins property and if the other half comes along he can't help it.

Pete Bramlin is the only denizen of the hook who will be permitted to remain. He has been living there for 35 years and in that time has saved the lives of a number of persons, including two employes of the Wiggins company, and consideration is to be shown him on that account. He will enjoy a sort of life estate in the ground his shanty-boat occupies.

ST. LOUIS A SUMMER RESORT? NOT IF HEAT IS A REQUIREMENT

July Records Show It Was Cool While Other Places Were Hot and Enjoyed Showers While They Were Dry—Mean Temperature 75 Degrees.

St. Louis has not been bothered by the heat this summer, and especially not in July.

Other summer resorts have had their long dry periods and their long hot periods, but St. Louis, in July, was dry only on Sunday, and hot only four or five days—at which time other places were several degrees hotter.

The voracious records of the Weather Bureau—which are not to be questioned, whatever liberties may be taken with the forecasts—show that St. Louis' July 1905, was the coolest for 15 years, and was equaled in coolness during the past 33 years only in 1882 and 1891.

The average July temperature in St. Louis is 79 degrees; this year it was 75 degrees, or 4 degrees below normal. The rainfall for the month was 4.42 inches, the greatest amount since 1899. Only seven wholly clear days were recorded. Eleven days were partly cloudy and 13 days were wholly cloudy. Rain fell on 11 days.

HYDE CABLES HE IS COMING BACK

Secretary Wilson Receives Message From Former Statistician—New Grafts Charged.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—In answer to a cablegram to John Hyde, former chief statistician of the Department of Agriculture, urging him to return to this country, Secretary Wilson today received the following dispatch from Mr. Hyde:

Southport, England, Aug. 2.—Returning soon as possible. Letter.

A Congressional investigation, Secretary Wilson believes, is needed to bring out all the facts with respect to the management of the Department of Agriculture.

He will ask for one if he sees the smallest excuse for doing so.

The Secretary has returned to his office as pleased with himself as if there had never been graft in his department. His interview with the President was satisfactory.

The investigation of the Division of Statistics is practically completed.

Rumors and reports of other grafts the Secretary is looking into as a matter of course, but the foundations upon which they rest are so slender that they look ridiculous to him.

Chief of these reports is that the furnishing of the label which is placed upon inspected meats is a graft. George E. Howard, vice-president of the company that furnishes them, called on the Secretary and left with him the company's stock book and the stubs of his check book for the purpose of showing that no employe of the department and no relative so far as he knows, is employed by the company or receives money from it.

Prof. Willis L. Moore, chief of the weather service, took notice of a report that he and other officers of the service were making the weather bureau station at Bluemont, Va., a place they could take week-end outings at Government's expense.

His answer is the publication of all the sections of appropriation bills authorizing the construction of buildings at that station for purposes of scientific research. Living quarters are maintained at that station for scientists assigned to work there. But, in fixing their compensation, that fact is taken into account. The scientists maintain a mess at Bluemont to which each contributes a dollar a day and $15 a month for each horse. The professor says that there is not one Government horse on the property.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 2.—Motorman Earl B. Brown was running his car at a high rate of speed on Kimberly avenue when little Elsie Foley, aged 7, ran across the tracks and tumbled in front of the car.

The trucks passed over the body. She lived only a few minutes. Brown was so unnerved by the accident that he was sent to his home. He took the front seat on a trolley car for home. Miss Josephine McCormick, a friend, aged 19, sat on the same seat. Brown started to tell her the story of the accident.

As he related the details Miss McCormick fainted and, reeling, fell from her seat to the pavement. Her skull was fractured and death was almost instantaneous. Brown's mind is thought to have been affected by the two accidents.
